

Conservatives Placed in Full Control in Canada

New Record Set as Party Captures 209 Out of 265 House of Commons Seats

Toronto — (AP) — Canada was amazed today by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's political triumph which shattered the opposition in parliament and placed his conservative party in complete command with the biggest majority in history.

Yesterday's general election — the country's second in 10 months — gave the conservatives 209 of the 265 seats in the house of commons for a new record.

The election made history in these other ways:

It reduced the once powerful liberal party to 47 seats, the smallest number ever. It had 106 before the election.

It sent the leader of the socialist cooperative commonwealth federation, M. J. Coldwell, to defeat and reduced the CCF house membership from 26 to 8.

One district was still out.

The election completely eliminated the social credit party from commons, including its leader, Solon Low. Social credit had 19 members in the previous parliament.

With 80 per cent of commons to back his policies, the 62-year-old prime minister will be in a powerful position to rule as his party wills for the next five years.

The largest number of members any party ever had before was the 190 seats the liberals won in 1949. Since his surprise victory last June, Diefenbaker had been governing with only 113, 20 less than a majority.

Tackles Jobs Problem

The prime minister swung into action immediately. He announced he was calling parliament back into session at the earliest moment to tackle the unemployment problem which he described as the No. 1 issue before the country.

Unemployment was one of the big campaign issues. Diefenbaker proposed a billion-dollar development program to take up some of the slack. He opposed the liberal proposal for tax cuts of approximately $400 million.

There was no pat explanation for the runaway vote. Diefenbaker had been generally picked to win a majority in the house.

Diefenbaker made a strong appeal to voters during the campaign to give him a chance to put his program into effect. It appeared that many of them swung to him to do just that.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, former foreign secretary and winner of the 1957 Nobel peace prize, expressed determination to rebuild his battered party for the future. Pearson retained his own seat in parliament.

"We are disappointed, but

Baruch Favors Tax Increase

Assails Proposals For Reduction as Spending Increases

Washington — (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch today advocated a tax boost to cover the cost of any new spending programs undertaken to fight the recession.

The 87-year-old financier said it would be "immoral...folly" to cut taxes, as many have been urging during the economic downturn. He said no pumping programs which would entail deficit financing should be launched.

Baruch said he would consider a tax increase to cover the federal deficit foreseen for the year ahead. He termed inflation "the single greatest peril to our economic health."

Baruch appeared as the opening witness in a renewed series of hearings by the senate finance committee on the nation's financial condition.

Sen. Anderson (D-NM) told him a $9 billion deficit is in prospect for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

"We've got to cut our cloth accordingly," Baruch told him. "Who's going to buy the (government) bonds to meet such a deficit?"

Anderson: "You surely can't raise taxes $9 billion in times like this, can you? Would you raise the corporation tax above the present 52 per cent level?"

Baruch: "Why shouldn't you? What's so sacred about that? Some individuals pay up to 90 per cent."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) raised the same point, asking if Baruch would boost taxes to offset a smaller deficit.

"I would consider that," Baruch said.

Son Nominated To Replace Father

Bismarck, N.D. — (AP) — The lawyer son of Rep. Usher L. Burdick, crusty Republican veteran from North Dakota, was nominated by a party-switching faction today as a candidate for his father's seat in congress.

Whether this would pit father against son for the vacancy was not immediately clear. It seemed possible the elder Burdick, who took a 30-year-old bride recently in his 79th year, would step out.

Lays Attack on Indiana Plant To Strangers

Supervisor Tells About Violence in 1955 Labor Dispute

Washington — (AP) — A Perfect Circle Corp. supervisor testified today "we might not be here today" if non-strikers had stood idly by when gunfire broke out in a 1955 labor dispute.

Kenneth Griffin, a supervisor at Perfect Circle's New Castle, Ind., plant, told senate investigators he was inside the plant with a shotgun on company orders on Oct. 5, 1955. That was the day of the battle that wounded eight persons and brought the national guard to the scene.

Saw Crowd Advance

The senate rackets committee is investigating violence during the 4-month strike of the United Auto Workers against the Indiana piston ring manufacturers. The strike was settled late in 1955.

Griffin, a veteran of 14 years with Perfect Circle who said he belonged to the UAW before he became a supervisor in 1945, blamed responsibility for violence at New Castle on "perfect strangers." He said he knew of nothing the union did to discourage violence.

He said there were hundreds of people he did not know and "only a few" strikers among about 2,000 demonstrators outside the plant the day of the shooting. He testified he saw "a mass of people coming

Ike Considered Ban on Nuclear Tests, Dulles Says

Washington — (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles disclosed today that President Eisenhower considered stealing a march on the Russians by announcing a U. S. suspension of atomic tests but rejected the whole idea as a propaganda gesture.

Dulles conceded at a news conference that the Soviet government won a certain propaganda victory with yesterday's announcement of suspension of Russian nuclear tests.

He labeled the gesture, however, as entirely propagandistic.

A 10-year school building time-table calling for three new schools, replacement of one existing school, additions to two others and purchase of a site for still another was presented to the board of education Monday night.

The time-table is part of a report on school population and a survey of building uses prepared by a special committee of school administrators for the city council. The council requested such a report last January on a resolution by Seventeenth Ward Ald. Alvin Tews.

Batista Gets Extra Powers

Authorized to Do Everything Needed To Crush Revolt

BY LARRY ALLEN

Havana — (AP) — The Cuban congress armed President Fulgencio Batista today with sweeping powers to do "whatever necessary" to crush rising rebellion and smash any general strike.

It declared a state of emergency, effective immediately, throughout Cuba. Congress said it acted because "the security of the state is in danger."

The declaration handed dictatorial powers to Batista and his council of ministers. He now can rule by decree the next 45 days without asking the approval of congress.

Under the extraordinary powers Batista may declare martial law and impose curfews.

Added Authority

The state of emergency also authorizes Batista to:

Reorganize the nation's armed forces and enlist thousands of more men to tighten his rule throughout the republic.

Impose new taxes, boost existing ones and modify all laws now in effect.

Exercise rigid control over the nation's transport and communications and take all steps to keep them operating.

Prohibit price increases, assure the flow of food supplies, and decree special government help for business, agriculture and industry.

Dictate the relationships between employers and employees.

Reorganize all judicial and government administrative functions.

Decree new and more severe punishments for all attempts to disturb public order or to wreck commerce and industry.

All of these powers ordinarily are exercised by congress. A permanent committee of 12 senators and 12 representatives will keep check on Batista's moves and report to the congress.

House Approves Funds For Civil Rights Group

Washington — (AP) — The house today formally passed and sent to the senate a bill appropriating $750,000 for expenses of the civil rights commission for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The action by roll-call vote confirmed tentative approval yesterday.

The civil rights fund was approved over the opposition of southern Democrats. It was part of a general $15,558,970 appropriation measure financing the White House and related offices.

Sentenced for Drunk Driving Of School Bus

25 Children Jump From Vehicle in Ohio Hill Country

Ironton, Ohio — (AP) — Twenty-five frightened children jumped from a moving school bus during a wild ride through the steep, winding hills of this southern Ohio area yesterday.

The bus driver, James V. McConnell, 55, of route 2, Chesapeake, was given a six months jail term and fined $500 and costs after he pleaded guilty in nearby Chesapeake mayor's court to driving while intoxicated.

Floyd told patrolmen he found the bus in a ditch on Greasy Ridge road with McConnell still at the wheel. Floyd was trying to get the bus back where it belonged when the patrolmen caught up with him.

Floyd said there were no children in the bus when he found it.

The terrified children, they told patrolmen later, jumped from the weaving bus—by ones, and by twos—whenever the vehicle slowed down on hills and curves.

Started To Weave

They said they first noticed McConnell's condition after they smelled the bus brakes burning and discovered he was driving with the emergency brake on. One of the older boys reported he let the brake off, an act which, he said, caused McConnell to become belligerent.

Then the bus started to weave madly, they said, and the screaming youngsters begged the driver to stop and let them off.

All of the children managed to escape before McConnell arrived at an elementary school to pick up a load of younger children.

A school official, astonished because the older children usually on the bus were not aboard, questioned McConnell. The driver immediately whirled his bus around and declared he was going back after them.

The school official notified the patrol, then gave chase.

But before anyone could catch the bus, the young children escaped and the bus turned around in the ditch where Floyd found it.

In the whole affair, there were no injuries, patrolmen 308 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, Wis., said: "The girls did

GOP Leaders Study New Recession Bill

Democratic Measure Would Make Billion Dollars Available for Municipal Public Works Loans

Washington—P—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) called Republicans together today to assess the "fine print" in an anti-recession bill Democratic leaders hoped the senate would pass before midnight.

The measure would make a billion dollars in loans available for municipal public works.

Knowland said he expects the Republican position on the bill to be solidified at a meeting of the GOP policy committee.

"We want to read the fine print before we decide what position to take on possible amendments on the bill," the senate Republican leader said in an interview.

Long Session

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, acting Democratic leader, said he hopes the senate can push the measure through in a long-hours session he said will run to midnight if necessary.

The bill is the last of a series of anti-recession measures on which Democratic leaders are pushing for senate action before an Easter recess. It won 13-2 approval of the senate banking committee yesterday, with only Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Bennett (R-Utah) opposing it in its final form.

Sen. Payne (R-Maine) claimed credit for a series of amendments under which the $2 billion authorization first proposed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) was cut in half and the maximum interest rate on the proposed loans raised to 3 1/2 per cent.

Maximum Rate

Fulbright prepared an amendment under which the maximum rate would be lowered to the 3 per cent he originally proposed. The interest rate under the present $100 million program, on which President Eisenhower has ordered a speed up in expenditures, ranges from 4 1/2 to 4 3/4 per cent.

Fulbright has contended that these rates are so high that only cities with poor credit ratings apply for loans.

Fulbright had proposed originally that all of the $2 billion loan authorization be placed in a revolving fund so that loans could be made over and over again. The committee ordered repayment to the treasury of $600 million, as it comes back from the cities, leaving $400 million for a revolving fund.

Projects Ready

Fulbright said $260 million in projects are ready for construction now, federal planning advances have been made on other projects to cost $366 million, and another $500 million is represented in applications for loans.

Projects would include construction and repair of streets, sidewalks, bridges, parking lots, airports, parks, hospitals, health centers, garbage disposal plants, schools, libraries, sewage facilities and police and fire buildings.

Couple Wins $585,421 on 2-Cent Wager

London—P—A British couple hit on a 26 million to 1 shot today when they won a world record prize of 209,079 pounds ($585,421) for two pence (two cents) on a soccer pool.

Thomas Riley, 58-year-old coal miner who earns eight pounds ($22.40) a week, and his 57-year-old wife, Elizabeth, immediately planned a trip to Canton, Ohio, to visit their polio-crippled 13-year-old grandson.

The Rileys came to London from the coal mining village of Horden in County Durham to collect.

"I want to go and see the bairn (child) and do everything I can for him," Mrs. Riley said.

"We tried to go a few years ago but just couldn't raise the money. Now we've got the money. And that trip to the United States, one we've always dreamed about, is the first thing we're going to do."

Her husband pulled his cloth cap over his eyes and said: "Mother's right. We're going to see the bairn as soon as we get things settled."

The Riley's eldest son—37-year-old Henry—met Florence Meyers of Canton, Ohio, while training in the United States for the royal air force early in World War II.

They were married 13 years ago and now live at Canton.

"They have got three sons," Mrs. Riley said. "Harry is the poor little fellow suffering from polio."

4 Million Workers Off Jobs During 24-Hour Stoppage

Paris—P—A nationwide 24-hour transport strike today left an estimated four million French workers off the job.

A million transport and allied workers went on strike. Lack of transportation kept the others from their work.

The walkout was called by France's three major trade unions in protest against continually rising living costs.

Trains, buses and subways were idled all over France. A few suburban trains were running but with no regular schedules. Airline traffic was halted at international airports.

Traffic Jams

The strike fell in the middle of the Easter holidays thus saving the big cities from the massive traffic jams that occurred in similar stoppages in the past. Schools were closed anyway and many workers were in the country. Others decided to stay at home, and business houses had ample time to arrange car pools for their employees.

Sympathy strikes spread across the country. Garbage collectors were out and gas workers stayed home. Pressure was low in all the Paris mains.

Many hospitals operated with skeleton staffs and electric power also was curtailed.

The walkout originally was called by trainmen seeking a three per cent wage boost. The government replied that it could not grant a raise without stepping up fares which had been boosted only last year.

All three major labor unions—communist, socialist and Catholic—lined up behind the strike. It was interpreted as a demonstration against the government as much as a wage demand.

Some Exceptions

While the strike was in effect throughout most of France, there were exceptions. Some public transport was running in Marseille and in smaller cities.

Passengers arriving from New York aboard the liner Liberté will get a free night on board tonight because there will be no boat train for Paris. The liner is already one day late because of an Atlantic storm.

The strike put a crimp in the start of a much-heralded campaign to clean up Paris. Garbage was not collected, streets were not swept and 6,000 wastepaper baskets scattered throughout the city to discourage littering the sidewalks were not emptied.

Judge Scott dismissed eight counts of forgery against Griffiths, who was accused of submitting some $13,000 worth of false claims while district agent for the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance company.

Griffiths, former president of the Redwood City Exchange club, had been honored by the city organization as Redwood City's most outstanding man in 1957.

Disclose New Methods For Fighting Cancer

Radioactive Fluid Piped Into Human Body At Places Where Surgery Is Not Possible

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Reporter

Chicago—P—Radioactive rivers are flowing into human bodies to fight cancers beyond the power of the surgeon's knife.

The rivers are fluids, containing radioactive atoms giving off X-rays that can kill cancerous cells. They flow through thread-thin plastic tubes sewn into the cancer-ridden organ or tissues.

This is one of a number of bold new methods of fighting cancer.

It was described today by Dr. Paul V. Harper, surgeon of Argonne cancer research hospital and University of Chicago, and Dr. William M. Ironside, ear and throat specialist of the University of Chicago medical and biological research center.

Two to six feet of the plastic tubing is wound in and around the cancer-sick area when it cannot safely be removed by surgery.

A few days later, the protruding ends of the tubes are filled with the radioactive fluid. It can be pumped in and out to expose the cancerous tissue to the lethal radioactive rays.

Relieves Pain

This has been done especially with cancers invading the pancreas gland. While it has not cured anyone or even lengthened life, it has dramatically relieved pain in most of 14 patients, Dr. Harper said.

This technique exposes the tissues directly and intimately to the radiation, and avoids radiation hazard to surgeons and nurses, the physicians told science writers making an American Cancer Society tour of research centers.

In another technique, small envelopes containing blotting paper have been implanted near tumors of the eye. Then the envelopes are filled with radioactive atoms to hit at the cancer.

Inject into Brain

Tiny "BBS" of radioactive yttrium, a chemical element, have been planted in the brain to destroy the pituitary gland, the so-called master gland. This treatment is helpful in some cancers of the breast and prostate gland, when the cancer is stimulated or fed by hormones

President of Two Burlington Firms Was on Business Flight in East

Carlisle, Pa.—P—A Wisconsin industrialist and his 15-year-old son died Monday when their small plane lost one wing and its tail and plunged to earth.

Killed were Donald R. Larimer, 43, Burlington, Wis., and his son, Donald, Jr.

Larimer was president of the General Crystal company and the General Electronics Service corporation, both of Burlington, and General Line Builders of Detroit, Mich.

Came Apart in Air

"The craft presumably came apart partially in the air shortly after the pilot had asked Harrisburg control tower for permission to land and was granted the permission," said Frank Sunday, a state aeronautics official.

Lester Fetterman, chief of operation of the civil aeronautics administration tower at Harrisburg State airport, said the pilot gave no indication of trouble when he radioed for permission to land.

Witnesses said the plane shed one wing and lost its tail before plunging into an open area about five miles northeast of Carlisle.

Carlisle is beside the Pennsylvania Turnpike and about 20 miles west of Harrisburg in the central part of the state.

Larimer was on a business trip. He had flown to Pittsburgh Sunday and was en route to Philadelphia when the plane broke apart.

His son attended Burlington High school but was on spring vacation.

The victims are survived by Larimer's wife, June, and two younger sons.

Navy Pilot

Larimer was a graduate of the University of Illinois and was a navy pilot during World War II.

He moved to Burlington from Chicago after the war. About five years ago he and his business partner, Dr. H. W. Granzau, Burlington, founded the General Crystal company, which makes piezo-electric crystals, used in radio transmitters to control frequency.

The civil aeronautics administration and state police investigators have swung into an investigation of the crash.

NLRB to Hear Arguments in Dispute Involving AFL-CIO, Employee Union

Washington—P—A case involving AFL-CIO reluctance to deal with a union of its own employees comes up today before the national labor relations board for argument.

The NLRB seldom allows argument in cases, usually deciding them on written briefs. But it is even rarer for the 5-man board to invite such arguments, as it did in this case.

AFL-CIO organizers formed their own labor organization, the Field Representatives Federation (FRF), and sought job security protections when it became clear the merging AFL and CIO would eventually cut down its organizing staff.

Sought Recognition

The FRF sought recognition and labor contract terms from the AFL-CIO, but the union federation's leaders balked at dealing with the FRF.

ing with the FRF. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said he became impatient when the FRF refused to demonstrate that it represented a majority of the organizers.

Early this year the FRF took its case to the NLRB, seeking to have the government agency hold an election among the organizers to demonstrate their majority, and compel the AFL-CIO to engage in bargaining.

Then the AFL-CIO fired or transferred 100 of its 215 organizers, which had the effect of cutting the FRF's membership potential nearly in half. About 55 organizers were discharged, 14 retired and 30 transferred to a new "speaker's bureau."

The AFL-CIO attributed the staff curtailment to a necessary "economy" move. FRF officials said they considered the staff shifts an effort to cut down the FRF's membership.

Other unions have labor contract relations among AFL-CIO employees, including units of office workers and public relations and publication employees.

Bargaining Rights

In the proceedings before the NLRB the AFL-CIO has argued that, technically under the law, the organizers don't fit the legal definition of "worker" but actually are exempted from required collective bargaining as a sort of management-type employee.

FRF's counsel, Mitchell Cooper, contends that the organizers are just like other workers entitled to collective bargaining rights. He points to a 1951 NLRB decision that a union made up of organizers and other employees of the Air Line Pilots association (ALPA) was entitled to bargain with the ALPA union.

He cites also a supreme court ruling last year that the NLRB could not exempt unions in their capacity of employers from Taft-Hartley act bargaining requirements.

James Sweeney of Borden-town, N. J., one of the organizers forced to retire prematurely at age 60 at $36 a month, has been picketing AFL-CIO headquarters here, from time to time as a protest.

Citizens Must Work Against Highway Deaths

Should Strive Together on Project, Bubolz Declares

"How best to accomplish a reduction in highway death and injuries is definitely known; the thing that needs to be done is for citizens to develop a plan and a program and to work as a cohesive unit to bring about the desired results," Gordon A. Bubolz, general chairman of the Outagamie Citizens Safety conference said at an organizational meeting Monday night.

Bubolz stated "the major life-saving challenge facing Americans is the prevention of highway accidents. From all of the studies that have been made," he stated, "we know what to do, it is a matter of doing them."

Citizens have a responsibility for safe driving, safe walking, to not ride with reckless drivers and to actively participate in and support safety organizations so that the entire community becomes safety conscious. Safety councils are a necessary medium, he stated.

Bubolz outlined the 10-point program of the president's safety conference as an effective means of meeting the life-saving challenge facing Americans. They are: sound, uniform laws, good accident records as a basis for action programs, continued effort on driver education and behind-the-wheel training in schools, adequate police protection and patrol, backing of courts and respect for law enforcement, sound driver-licensing programs, roads that are adequate to cope with modern traffic, modernization of roads and streets in all important areas, vehicle safety by intelligent foresight on the part of automobile manufacturers and public education and understanding.

The group also adopted by-laws and named a nominating committee consisting of Stanley Gillespie, Appleton, chairman, Walter Blake, Black Creek, and Charles Fischer, Bear Creek.

Sunny Skies Greet April In Fox Cities

April in Paris has nothing on the Fox Cities this first day of the month, with sunny, pleasant weather and still no rain in sight.

At Appleton, the temperature at 10:45 this morning was a comfortable 54 degrees. The overnight low was 29 and Monday's high was 56 degrees, according to the weather station at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

The forecast for the Fox Cities is warmer weather, with possible cloudy skies and the high range for Wednesday between 54 and 62 degrees. In contrast, the weather bureau predicts below normal temperatures for April east of the Appalachians and in the southern half of the country. Above normal averages are indicated for the north from the Great Lakes westward to the Pacific coast.

Dry March

Precipitation in Wisconsin last month was the lowest for March in many years. In the eastern and southern part of the state, it was the driest March since 1911.

Temperatures Monday night ranged from a low of 22 degrees in northwestern Milwaukee county to 38 at Grantsburg and La Crosse. Green Bay and Lake Geneva reported 24, Pewaukee 26, Lone Rock and Madison 27, Wausau 28, Park Falls 30, Eau Claire and Superior 32.

The highs Monday were in the 50s, except close to Lakes Michigan and Superior where maximums were held to the 40s. Beloit and Pewaukee topped the state with 60.

Presidio, Texas, recorded a maximum of 86 Monday and Fraser, Colo., had a low of 2 below zero early today.

3,014 Cast Ballots to Noon Today

A total of 3,014 Appleton voters went to the polls through noon today, City Clerk Elden Broehm reported.

This compares with 3,860 at noon on election day in 1952. The last time there was a race for mayor.

The 1952 election, however, was enlivened not only by a 4-way race for mayor, but also with a parking meter referendum and a presidential primary.

Votes in the 1954 and 1956 city elections were far under today's total at noon.

3 False Alarms Bring Warning From Fire Chief

Three false alarms within a short period Monday night brought stern words of warning today from Fire Chief Paul Neumann.

"People who think it's funny to pull our alarm boxes in jest," he said, "are gambling the lives of their neighbors. While we have two and three engines answering the false alarms real trouble could break out and we could not get on the scene soon enough. In some cases, to save valuable property and, more important, people's lives."

If the pranksters were ever on hand in those instances when firemen are within a single minute of saving a person's life in a fire, they would realize the importance of time, the chief said.

People who knowingly turn in false alarms, he said, will be punished under the law when they are caught, he promised.

The false alarms Monday night were to 300 E. Water street about 10:27, to E. Harris street and N. Morrison street about 10:50 and to the senior high school about 11:50.

Seoul, Korea — President Syngman Rhee's government announced Monday elections will be held May 2 for a new national assembly.

Candidates have until April 10 to file for the 233 seats, an increase of 30 over the present lower house because of population increases.

In the outgoing assembly Rhee's liberal party has 131 seats and the opposition democrats 46. A hot fight is expected but the outcome will not affect Rhee directly. His term runs until 1960.

Divide South Side Into 3 Intermediate Districts

Some Children Now Going to Foster and Richmond Schools Will Be Transferred

Appleton's south side will be divided into three intermediate school districts for the next school year and students going to a school outside their district will be transported, the board of education decided Monday night.

The decision was made because all intermediate children will be transferred from Foster and Richmond to either McKinley or the new James Madison Junior high. All intermediate II and III (fifth and sixth graders) youngsters will attend the Madison school. All intermediate I (fourth graders) will attend McKinley.

Large Enrollment

The transfers are needed because of unusually large numbers of beginning primary children in both Richmond and Foster schools and also due in part to the addition of children who would normally have attended Sacred Heart school, according to a report by Miss Charlotte Klerman, principal of Foster school, and Miss Viola Pelzer, principal of Richmond school.

The three districts will comprise the areas of Foster, Richmond and McKinley schools. An alternative to creating the three districts would have been to provide transportation on a strict distance basis. Both Supt. of Schools John P. Mann and the two principals recommended creating the new districts.

Mann estimated about 60 children would be going to school out of their district and have to be transported.

At present the south side is divided into three districts for primary grades and one for intermediate grades.

Behind Schedule

The school board also heard there is a possibility that the Madison school will not be 100 per cent complete by Sept. 1. Director of Business Affairs William R. Knuth said the most

Valley Food Building Sold

Meat Service Firm Buys Entire Setup On $72,000 Bid Price

Land, building and all equipment of the Valley Distributing company, defunct food firm, have been sold to the Valley Meat Service, Highways 10 and 41, in a sale approved by Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell.

The Valley Distributing firm last November began liquidation proceedings in circuit court, reporting $134,256 in liabilities.

Valley Meat Service made an offer of $72,000 for the land, building, fixtures, refrigeration equipment, meat equipment and the value of Valley Distributing's name and that of its retail operation, Valley Pride Food Service. The buildings are on W. College avenue (Highway 125) west of the city.

One Other Offer

A Green Bay fish firm offered $20,000 for the buildings and equipment. There were no other formal offers to buy filed.

A few items remain to be sold, H. M. Pankratz, receiver for the firm, informed the court. The inventory of foods and small equipment has been sold.

Valley Meat Service, operated by Walter Boettcher, will be relocated because of construction of the Highway 10 and 41 overpass and 4-laning of 41.

In 1952 he became operations officer of the division's 808th tank battalion. He was assigned to duty as the division's assistant operations and training officer in 1953.

10-Year Building Plan Calls for 4 New School Plants

new junior high school on the north side is being considered. The building to replace the Edison school would be built on the present playground site at the school.

Based On Census

The construction time-table is based on a study of school census and a projection into the future. It shows the school population will be about 20,000 10 years from now—nearly double the present school census. In July, 1947, the city's school census was 8,505. (This is the number of persons between 4 and 18.) By July, 1957, it had mounted to 12,992, an increase of nearly 52 per cent in 10 years. "It seems reasonable to assume a comparable increase in the next 10 years, making a school population approximating 20,000, providing economic conditions continue to develop in the same degree as the last 10 years," the report states.

The total enrollment in city public schools on Jan. 29, 1958, was about 7,750. Elementary schools had 4,851, junior high schools 1,338 and the senior high school 1,540. Assuming that about 60 per cent of the school population will be in public schools, an estimated 12,000 students will have to be housed by 1970. This is a 55 per cent increase over a 12-year period. Of the 12,000, 6,500 are expected in elementary schools, 2,750 in junior high schools and 2,750 in senior high schools.

Conservative Figure

The figures of probable attendance were based on the present parochial and public school attendance. Recent transfers of parochial students to public schools tend to increase the number of public school pupils, the report continues. The public schools need to be capable of absorbing parochial school students during periods of emergency in parochial schools, and consequently, the previously quoted figures were determined conservatively.

Five new elementary schools have been constructed in Appleton since 1950 and all are at or beyond capacity enrollments. The McKinley school will be remodeled into a complete elementary school to serve the south side. Heavy enrollments in the Richmond and Foster school areas make it necessary to consider adding to the schools, the report says.

Intermediate grades will have to be transferred from Richmond and Foster schools this September to make room for the large increase of primary pupils expected. This is partly due to the transfer of first graders from the Sacred Heart school into the public schools.

Anticipate Growth

The report anticipates the College to Candee high-level bridge will spur home building in the area east and south of the bridge, and therefore recommends consideration of an elementary school site in this area.

Based on recent costs of school buildings, the construction program would cost about $7.5 million. This is probably a conservative estimate because building costs are rising, the report declares. Nor, does it include the cost of sites not already purchased.

Takes Dim View

The report takes a dim view of any proposal to change to a 2-shift day or to the quarterly system in an attempt to solve the lack of classroom space.

"Concerning the 2-shift or double-session plan, the report says it will provide classroom space for twice the number of pupils accommodated in the present system. Typically, the child attends school either in the forenoon or the afternoon. The teaching materials and classroom facilities are used by two teachers and two class units.

Presently the pupils in Appleton public schools attend school about six hours a day. If hours were set to give comparable time in two shifts, school would open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at 6 o'clock in the evening, the report states. If school hours were set from 8 o'clock in the morning to noon and from 12:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon to accommodate the two shifts, only two-thirds as much school time would be devoted to each pupil. This would cut school offerings by one-third.

Already 'Too Soft'

The report goes on to point out that schools in the United States are already considered "too soft" in comparison to foreign schools and asks if the country could afford to shorten the number of hours to what such a double-session would mean. Quoting from a publication of the Public Education association of New York the report says: "... The use of double sessions:

Substantially reduces for thousands of children their birthright of educational opportunity by (a) retarding the mastery of basic skills, (b) reducing opportunities for guiding, (c) limiting group activities ties which develop personality and citizenship, (d) fostering confusion and wasting time, (e) generating insecurity and disorientation, and (f) promoting delinquency.

The report also quotes from a letter from the assistant state superintendent of schools dated March 24, 1958. The letter says there are three schools in Wisconsin on a half-time day schedule. These have been warned they will not receive an integrated classification unless definite arrangements are made for teaching students on a full-time basis next year, the letter continues.

The letter writer knew of no high schools in the state operating on a double session, nor of any that operate on the quarterly system.

Would Cut Aids

The report says that anything less than an integrated rating would mean a cut in state aids for the schools. This, it says, would mean more local taxes would be needed to support the schools.

Under the quarter system where children go to school three quarters of the year and are out of school one quarter, the report says, a study made in New Jersey showed it made only a 3 per cent saving on the cost of education.

Other drawbacks to the quarterly system, according to the report are:

Inconvenience to parents if they have children in different quarters. Programs of brothers and sisters might not coincide and cause difficulty in scheduling vacations. Additional problems and increased costs in repair and maintenance because the buildings are always in use and overtime rates might have to be paid for custodial work.

Athletic programs and other activities would be difficult to work out on a quarterly basis.

"One of the most serious obstacles to adopting an all-year program is the inertia of the community—its resistance to such a drastic change—involving, as it does, major readjustments for pupils, teachers and parents," the report contends. A Florida study is quoted that says "There is no school in the research that has not abandoned the system after it had tried it temporarily."

Summer Program

However, the study did say an enrichment program for the summer months could be wisely undertaken. Such a program would be voluntary and would be an addition to the regular school year.

This program would mean additional costs for salaries, instructional equipment and material and operating the school during the period.

The report concludes that any program contrary to the present one of meeting the building needs and continuing the present educational policies seems inadvisable.

The report was prepared by Neil Lunenschloss, chairman,

County Relief Roles Decrease, Eggert Says

But Family Counseling Shows Increase As Financial Assistance Takes Drop

"Eight years ago Outagamie county had 1,468 cases of public financial assistance handled by the welfare department, while today there are less than 700. At the same time our service caseload has doubled itself, and it has largely been in the field of family counseling."

That was the report of Alfred R. Eggert, county welfare director, to a luncheon meeting of the Appleton Community council Monday noon at the YMCA.

Eggert and the Rev. Peter Klauck, director of the Appleton Apostolate, presented summaries of welfare work in their particular areas. In the absence of F. A. W. Hammond, city relief director, Mrs. Dorothy Stillings of the Appleton city council, spoke from the floor about that department.

All social service agencies represented at the meeting reported that demands for counseling and family planning had increased greatly in their offices. When the question of establishing a family counseling service in the city was posed Eggert replied: "For some time I have felt that all that area needs is more personnel in the existing agencies," but he added that counsel for those whose family difficulties are primarily legal was an entirely different thing.

Shows Increase

Mrs. Stillings reported that the city relief department averaged 46 cases per month in 1957, but so far in 1958, it had increased to 65 per month. "This increase has come about particularly in the field of health—meeting doctor and drug bills. The city does not look favorably on helping people with refrigerator payments or assisting those with some income. Until this year, the city probably got a larger share of cases of mothers with children; but there has been an increase in total-family cases."

Father Klauck said the Apostolate has not had to take on any new cases, but that some of its old cases have become more urgent, with breadwinners working fewer hours to support more children than had been in the family at the time they first came to the Apostolate's notice.

The basis for deciding which cases get city and which cases get county relief is that of time factor, it was revealed. The city's relief service are of an emergency nature, to tide an applicant over until he qualifies for county relief, for the processing of the latter sometimes takes three months. Any long-term relief is handled by the county.

Residence Discussion

During a discussion of the residence law for relief eligibility, Eggert noted that the Wisconsin law had been criticized for losing its humane element. "What was happening in the last five years was that Wisconsin, without a residence law, was having persons from other states pour in here for relief, while former Wisconsin people were being returned to us from states with harsher laws. Wisconsin now feels that it will do for other states what other states have been willing to do for it. There is nothing too wrong about that."

At present, New York is the only state left without a residence law.

Eggert also reported success in a program of educating elderly people to guard against winter accidents. "Eight years ago we had from 10 to 20 cases each winter of elderly people breaking their hips in street accidents, and each of these cost the county $2,700. In the last three years, we have not had a single fractured hip case from sources outside the home," he said.

County Policemen Inspect Vehicles

County Police Captain Ronald E. Decker reported 127 vehicles were stopped and inspected on Highway 78 in the town of Grand Chute last week.

Of the 127 vehicles checked, 114 were cars and 13 were trucks. Police issued 5-day warning tickets to three drivers to have their headlights repaired, three for taillights, five for stop lights and one for windshield wiper.

The inspections were made by County Policemen Stanley Arnold, William Block, Charles Steidl, and William Janssen.

Challenges Report Of Czarist Treasure In Bank of England

Wiesbaden, Germany — Persistent rumors of a fabulous czarist treasure hidden in the vaults of the Bank of England were challenged Monday by testimony in the world famed Anastasia case.

An intimate friend of the former Russian imperial family told a German civil court he was advised during the bolshevik revolution that the czar ordered all his funds withdrawn from British accounts during World War I.

Prof. Pierre Gilliard, 78-year-old French language teacher of the czar's family, testified he was informed of the withdrawal by the grand marshal of the imperial court, a Count Benczkendorff.

Gilliard was testifying in a suit Mrs. Anderson, 57, has brought against the German house of Hesse. The family of nobility is denying her longtime claim that she is Anastasia, youngest daughter of the last Russian czar, Nicholas II.

Amazing new preparation smooth, away lines, wrinkles

new from DUBARRY

Perhaps once in ten years there's a scientific discovery that revolutionizes the beauty world. Such a discovery had to happen before you could own these new preparations—DuBarry Crème Natale and Elixir Natale.

These amazing cosmetics act swiftly to soften, to tighten... they seem to smooth out tiny lines and wrinkles. They give your complexion a tone that's fresher, a texture that's finer, a look that's incredibly younger.

Their secret is as simple—yet as complex—as the secret of life itself! It is a vital substance DuBarry calls Placentine... a rich combination of the very proteins, vitamins, enzymes and esters that help promote skin cell growth before birth. Placentine penetrates to the cellular layer of the skin. Instantly, it starts to increase the flow of natural oil and moisture... coaxes a youthful elasticity into the skin... helps banish the drying, faded look of age!

No matter what else you use, smooth on the Placentine Preparations once each day. They help your other cosmetics do more for you. And they give your skin—immediately—a miraculous second start in beauty!

Crème Natale is a classic complexion cream actually compounded with the pre-birth vitamin and mineral ingredients that help promote the growth of healthy skin. It is formulated to wear by night. Price 7.50*

Elixir Natale is a lotion made with the same precious ingredients. It is formulated to wear by day, or as a lighter night treatment. Price 7.50* plus tax

Sign Off in Titoland

When Yugoslavia's Dictator Tito so bravely renounced any more American military aid last December, he was obviously making a grandstand play with an eye for the Kremlin's applause. But, as the military program is being liquidated now in Belgrade, there appears to have been another reason for Tito's move. According to our Gen. Mercer Walter, who has been in charge of the program, the assigned mission of the American military assistance staff in Belgrade has accomplished its purpose 90 per cent for the army, 60 per cent for the air force and 100 per cent for the navy.

Time may tell whether the program was worth it, or we may never know. When it was begun more than six years ago there seemed to be great danger of Russia actually taking over Yugoslavia as Tito arrogantly defied the Kremlin. Gen. Walter has expressed approval of further American aid in the matter of spare parts to keep the jets and tanks running. "If we can maintain those forces in a state of readiness for less than 1 per cent of the original cost each year... it seems a good investment to me. Otherwise our whole investment inevitably goes down the rat-hole with the attrition of time..."

Opponents may simply say that it is casting good money after bad. Undoubtedly the more than $750 millions that the United States has given to Yugoslavia in the form of military aid has helped keep that country independent of Russia to some extent. But it certainly has not increased justice or liberty within Yugoslavia.

"If the need ever arises, I am sure they would fight, and fight well," says Gen. Walter.

But for whom?

Why Not Combine Air, Rail Terminals?

Our recent suggestion that the city or county build a modern railroad depot to serve this area has brought a suggestion from a reader that the proposed terminal building at the Outagamie county airport be designed to serve both air and rail passengers.

We find the idea intriguing. The main line of the Chicago and North Western runs very near the airport; with the purchase of a relatively small amount of extra land (which the county has been thinking of buying anyway) a terminal building could be built that would serve both purposes. Thus the county would be getting, in effect, two service facilities for the price of one.

The location, from the rail passengers' point of view, also would be excellent. The present stop at Appleton Junction is too close to the stop at Neenah-Menasha, and furthermore means an added inconvenience for people of the Kaukauna-Kimberly-Little Chute area. If the county were to build a separate rail terminal, undoubtedly it would select a site somewhere in the northeastern section of Appleton.

Combining travel facilities is a growing movement in this country. Chicago is considering a union rail terminal with the helicopter ports on its roof, plus hotel-motel facilities. Hotelman Conrad Hilton recently has announced plans to build "stop-over" hotels at major air terminals throughout the country. The idea, of course, is to provide more convenience for travelers who often use more than one mode of transportation when taking trips.

It bothers us to think of people coming to Appleton getting their first impression of this community from the ancient depot at the Junction. Since the county is planning to spend from $75,000 to $100,000 for a terminal at the airport anyway, how much more it could get for its money if they made it a combined air-rail terminal!

Science and Sirloin Steak

Wags are saying America's eating habits are due for a shot in the arm.

If what researchers predict comes to pass, this country's food-loving masses may be laughing from the other side of their plate of potatoes, for a revolution in eating appears in the offing.

Scientists say they are working toward development of a synthetic nutrient which will make eating unnecessary.

One need only pause for a moment of reflection to grasp the importance of such a discovery.

Given time to develop, the process might one day send the hypodermic syringe, long a basic tool of the medical profession, to a place of prominence in the kitchen. This is not as ridiculous as it may seem at first glance since, we are told, the nutrient would be injected into the blood stream.

One injection, possibly, might take the place of successive meals of bacon and eggs, roast beef and chicken.

The well-stocked American larder no longer would contain an assortment of canned items, sugar, flour and cereal and a deep freeze filled with meats.

The pantry of tomorrow might contain row upon row of neatly labeled vials. There'd be no need for menu-planning unless science would outdo itself and produce, for instance, a porterhouse steak injection or leg 'o' lamb shot.

Whether the more exotic foods would find their way into hypo form is a moot question. We suspect, however, that in some cases this might be an improvement. We refer specifically to grasshoppers hors d'oeuvres or ants Takusan which, when nibbled upon now, sound disturbingly as if one were eating a light bulb.

We believe, too, there is more than a little promise in reducing other rare delicacies to the solvent state. These might include muskrat mignon, pickled whale skin, rooster combs au vin, mashed mussels, jellied cherry blossoms and octopus Sasebo.

Progress to the contrary, we see little or no cause for alarm at this point. Science has a peculiar way of adding to rather than taking away.

The miracle of nutrition via a hypodermic needle undoubtedly is on the way and it, like the knife and fork, will find its place in our society. Indeed such a miracle will be welcomed by all mankind. But the sirloin steak, potatoes au gratin, crisp salad and mellow wine are here to stay.

That, forevermore, will be the best shot in the arm for the hungry of the world.

The Maturing Conservation Congress

On occasions in the past these columns have offered some criticism of the attitudes and the practices of the Wisconsin Conservation Congress, the advisory organization of the state conservation commission which was formed more than 20 years ago and which had some characteristic growing pains in earlier years.

Recent acts and expressions of the Congress, however, call for a reevaluation of this fairly unique organization in state policy-making and administrative lawmaking. The Congress has conspicuously matured, in its judgment of contemporary issues important to the problem of managing natural resources, but also, and most important, in its conception of its own rights, responsibilities and obligations.

Noteworthy in its current work is the contribution of its present chairman, Ed Morse of Lancaster. Morse is a man of considerable horse sense, as the rank and file of the outdoors sportsmen might put it. He has no foolish illusions about political power or importance. He has a good grasp of current realities. He knows that the Congress is purely advisory in its purpose and that any attempt to make of it anything else would be extra-legal if not actually illegal.

There was a time when the Congress comported itself as a kind of elite corps, and obviously believed that the public officers at Madison representing all the people should take its orders willy-nilly.

If there is a weakness in the Congress as it is functioning today it lies in the fact that it has not yet demonstrated that broad popular representation that its existence implies, and that the commission and the legislature had in mind when this machinery was devised in the 1930's. Most counties have relatively small turnouts at the county sessions each spring when the county members of the state Congress are chosen. It might be a useful piece of business for the state committee members to work for a broader expression at the grass roots, to make this instrumentality truly representative and responsible, and more directly useful as a consequence.

Suggests Different Cartoon on Sales Tax

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This letter is an answer to your cartoon of "Wilhe" being out of step with the other "Democratic Controlled States with Sales Taxes."

Instead of men with guns marching in formation there should have been a pack of sheep following a leader.

Why doesn't Wisconsin show the rest of these sales tax states that we are man enough to stand on our own two feet without the need of a crutch—the sales tax?

P. S. I have a very good suggestion for Mr. Schmitt to do another cartoon concerning the boon of a sales tax on the Tax-Ridden Johnny Q. Public.

Steel Company's Use of TV to Explain Financing Vivid Story

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY (Copyright, 1958)

The story of how businesses operate, how they meet their problems, is often as dramatic as the whodunits that I look at late at night.

Sokolsky

I have sometimes wondered how it happens that companies that spend millions of dollars on television do not use their commercials to tell something about themselves, particularly the capital and durable goods manufacturers who do not sell to the consumer directly.

The United States Steel hour recently has been using its commercial time to explain what it is and how it does business and if we are to have good plays interrupted in this manner, I prefer something really informative to watching a three-quarters naked female lie in the sand and sing about beer or cigarettes or bras.

The subject matter of U. S. Steel's "Report to the Public" is very instructive. We pay 7 1/2 cents a pound on the average for carbon and alloy steel. So that amounts up to about $4,000,000,000 a year and looks very big. Of each dollar, 42 1/2 cents goes to wages and salaries. Of the remaining 57 1/2 cents, 30 cents went to 50,000 suppliers of products and services. That left 27 1/2 cents of which 6 cents went to depreciation which really should be called "wearing-out," which is what happens to machines as well as men, only the government recognizes the facts of life about machines but not about human beings. So we are now down to 21 1/2 cents but federal, state and local taxes took 12 cents of that leaving only 9 1/2 cents to gross profits out of every dollar earned.

Valuable Report Now, if the company could keep that 9 1/2 cents as a real profit it would be doing a very big business, but what actually happens is that it sets aside 2 cents additional for replacements and 3 1/2 cents for research and improvements and such activities and comes out in the end 4 cents on the dollar of profit which goes to 300,000 share owners of whom not one owns more than 2 per cent of the stock.

It is a very valuable kind of report and would do more good abroad than much of the stuff that goes over to Europe, Asia and Africa these days.

Another of these commercials deals with the problem of inflation. All costs, including labor costs, went up an average of 8 1/2 per cent per year since 1940 but prices only went up 5 1/2 per cent. The rest of the commercial explains how a company manipulates to avoid being out-priced in the market. But the commercial I liked best when I heard it was the one on obsolescence.

Here is a machine, one machine that cost $10,000,000. That is why some industrial operations cannot be done on a small scale. If a steel company owns five open hearth furnaces, they might have cost $50,000,000, 25 years ago. The government permits the company to take off part of cost each year, so that when the machine wears out, it can be replaced.

Costs Much Higher

But at today's prices that machine costs $45,000,000. So where does a company get the money to make up the difference between the $10,000,000 it was permitted by the tax collector to set aside for replacement and the $35,000,000 that it has to find? Well, some of it is that 2 cents additional set aside out of each earned dollar. But much of it comes from borrowing from banks, insurance companies and the public.

You may have noticed when you look at railroad trains or locomotives that there are signs showing that the particular car or locomotive is not owned by the railroad but by a bank which acts as a trustee. We do not yet see such signs on machines in factories, but anything can happen when so large a share of earned income goes to taxes and the taxes are wastefully and profligately spent.

The reason that the administration, which knows as well as you or I that taxes must be cut, postpones that day is that they know that, short of war, the politicians will not be able to put the taxes back once they are taken off. Government will have to cut its cloth to fit its pocketbook; all sorts of useless and duplicative activities, described in the Hoover reports and testified to before congressional committees, will have to go. Nothing would be better for the country.

Delay in Selection of Justice Hurts Thomson

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — One of the characteristics of Gov. Vernon W. Thomson that is a common topic of friends and enemies is his reluctance to make difficult decisions.

Several times lately the governor has been so tardy in facing up to delicate matters that the result has actually hurt him. An illustration is offered currently in his long hesitation about making an appointment to the vacant seat on the Wisconsin supreme court. He has delayed more than a month with consequences that are obviously unfavorable to himself politically and otherwise.

These are difficult matters, as all reasonable men can concede. But they are made only more difficult by postponement. The judgeship is perhaps the most important office that the governor has been called upon to fill during his gubernatorial career.

Yet the consequences of delay are as obvious as they are awkward. The longer the position remains unfilled, the more candidates are likely to conclude that they ought to compete for it and to get their friends behind their campaigns.

In these weeks boomlets have started for many persons, prominent local lawyers, local magistrates, and others.

CHAGRIN RESULTING

Some of them are getting their candidacies into print. Quite obviously, most of them will be disappointed when the time for decision finally arrives. They will be known to their friends and admirers as unsuccessful candidates, who were passed over by the governor. Inevitably there will be chagrin, and worse, that will react against the governor in his future political life.

It is easy for the critic on the sidelines to suggest how these matters ought to be handled. Yet the ideal way would be for a governor to review the patronage possibilities as he arrives in office after the election and to make tentative decisions, quite privately, about the men he wants to name when the openings occur.

Capitol legend has it this was the way at least one former governor, the late Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Sheboygan, proceeded when he became governor for one term in 1929 and was called upon to make more judicial nominations than any other modern governor ever made in a single term in office. This chronicler wasn't present then, and therefore cannot testify to the accuracy of the legend. But it would seem to be a common-sense method of meeting a problem that every governor can be sure will face him.

PATRONAGE PROBLEM

Making appointments to high places is at once one of the joys and the rewards of political power, and one of the most delicate of the politician's problems.

In late years, moreover, governors have sometimes found a new wrinkle on the patronage problem. Not only have they had the traditional problem of keeping the job seekers at bay, but sometimes they have found it difficult to recruit men reasonably qualified and acceptable for some of the higher administrative offices.

That is not likely to be a consideration in the supreme court choice, however. There is a good deal of grumbling in the bar about the laggard habits of the legislature with respect to salary allowances for the judiciary. But there are comparatively few lawyers, it may be guessed, who wouldn't accept a supreme court seat if it was offered.

There is at the moment no hint of the governor's design with respect to the vacant judgeship — except that it will very likely go to a Milwaukee man.

But this much can be hazarded: He will make one man happy, at the cost of offending many others. A quick decision would have reduced the number of the latter.

White House lost - and found ad: "Will the Republican senator who claims to have the president's ear please return it? This country is too big to be run on one ear."

As long as congress is fussing about fixing the capitol dome, perhaps it ought to start by buying Speaker Sam Rayburn a toupee.

Just one question about Ike's order to the defense department to spend $2 billion to hit the moon. Is this trip necessary?

Experts say the recession got worse because people are saving too much money. You can't win. If you spend, you go broke. If you save, the nation goes broke.

Soviet election resembles the female form in a sack dress. Something about it seems vaguely familiar, but you can't be sure without a closer inspection.

Ike's recent statement that we've reached the bottom of the recession is supposed to be optimistic and does not refer to one of those times when you reach bottom — and never come up.

Mail Service Change Noted To Rural Area

About 70 Families
To Be Affected by Delivery Saturday

Kaukauna — A new delivery service will be inaugurated by the post office for rural route 3 beginning Saturday, according to Robert Grogan, postmaster.

Approximately 70 families will be affected by the change. Areas involved include Sullivan avenue from Thirteenth to Seventeenth streets, Glenview avenue, the 300 blocks on W. Thirteenth and W. Seventeenth streets, the 400 block on W. Eleventh street and W. Tenth street from Eden avenue west to the curve at the Hennes circle.

This area will be transferred from rural to city delivery and will be served by a mounted city carrier, said the postmaster. Delivery will be made to a box at the curb just as at present, the only change, insofar as the patron is concerned, will be the mailing address.

Effective Saturday patrons will be required to use a house number and street address rather than the route 3 address. The rural box being used at present will continue to be used in the same location but property owners will be required to paint their house numbers on the box.

The number should be placed on the same side of the box as the name is at present so it is visible to the carrier as he approaches, according to Grogan. It is very important that the number be properly placed on the box as delivery will not be made by name as in the case on rural routes, said the postmaster.

One delivery is scheduled each day and this will include parcel post. Delivery will be about 2:15 in the afternoon. Patrons having residences within the city limits on this route may get house numbers from the city engineer and those residing in the town of Buchanan may secure house numbers by calling the post office.

Summer Garden To Be Studied In KVS Course

Kaukauna — The fifth in a series of six lectures for the amateur gardener and landscape artist will be held at 7 o'clock Wednesday night at the Kaukauna Vocational school under the direction of Laurence Holmes.

This lecture will cover the period of gardening from June through August and will include plant problems such as diseases, pests, watering and feeding habits, maturing bulbs and perennials and oncoming annuals.

A discussion will be held on plants available for summer bloom including perennials, annuals, tubers and corms. Propagation of plants will be discussed as well as good combinations of plants for ideal blossoming in June, July and August.

not discouraged," he said. "We will regroup. We will go to work and do the best in the future to reverse the result."

Coldwell, who had been in parliament since 1935, said he would continue active in the CCF but would never again seek election to the house of commons. Low, the social credit leader, said "We lost our members of parliament, but our movement is not destroyed." Social credit controls the provincial governments in Alberta and British Columbia and CCF has Saskatchewan.

The biggest upsets came in traditionally liberal Quebec province and in the western provinces where the CCF and social credit parties have long been powerful.

In Quebec the conservatives won 50 of the 75 seats, 41 more than they took in 1957 when the province went against the general trend and stuck with the liberals. The 25 seats retained by the liberals yesterday represents the smallest number the party has held in Quebec since 1882.

The conservatives took all 14 Manitoba seats, all 17 in social credit Alberta and 16 of 17 in Saskatchewan. They also scored heavily in British Columbia.

Populous Ontario, already strongly conservative, went with the rest of the country as did the eastern maritime provinces.

This will be Perini's first construction job in Milwaukee. His firm built the city-county building at Madison.

little about what NBC had done for his agency. He said he didn't know, for example, about prizes ranging from $18.25 to $32.50 for the girls' bowling league.

"I was aware," the FCC chairman said, "that some of the commissioners received Christmas presents."

Doerfer was chided by Chairman Harris (D-Ark) for having made 35 or 40 trips during his five years on the commission.

Harris said the travel by Doerfer and some other commissioners "seems to me to have been a little excessive" and that some such trips have "too much the aspect of a vacation."

Describes Trips

Doerfer said his trips include such things as one-day inspections of military projects, and he said commissioners turn down three invitations for every one they accept.

He was questioned in particular about five round-trip airplane tickets provided by NBC in 1956 for FCC members. Doerfer said he had no present recollection of how transportation for himself and his wife was paid for. But he said that since the tickets were available he assumed NBC provided them.

The subcommittee, which called a recess until tomorrow in its public hearings, also heard disavowals of any wrongdoing by two other commissioners, neither of whom had been mentioned in any of the charges.

Veteran Commissioner T. A. M. Craven said: "I can't be swayed by anything that's dishonorable — I hope."

Frederick W. Ford, the FCC's newest member, said he hadn't even charged the government for expense money since he took office last summer except for one $1.50 taxi fare. He added that he didn't accept the commissioners who have done loan of a color TV set from the so.

across the field" toward the plant and overturning autos.

"Well," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) commented, "I regard that as an assault on the plant."

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) asked what would have happened if the non-strikers inside the plant "just stood there and did nothing."

"Well," Griffin replied, "we might not be here today to tell it. You get a mob together and you can't tell what's going to happen."

Union officials have contended the men inside the plant fired upon an unarmed group of marching demonstrators. The company says strikers started the violence.

Bought 8 Shotguns

Griffin denied UAW contentions that stacks of rifles and shotguns removed by state police from the plant after the shooting constituted a company-provided arsenal. He said only eight shotguns were purchased by the company and that his own shotgun and the weapons of others were personal property.

Griffin testified he did not shoot and said he was not in a position to see who fired the first shot. He said company supervisors told him that "if they (the strikers) come over, fire to scare them and fire at their legs."

Major spokesmen for both the company and the United Auto Workers blamed each other yesterday for violence that erupted into a pitched gun battle at New Castle on Oct. 5, 1955.

But the testimony was restrained and devoid of the bitter clashes that marked the recently completed five weeks of hearings on UAW's strike against the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin.

A contract was signed at New Castle late in 1955 after four months of striking and guard when the union made a no-violence pledge. The committee showed no inclination to explore the matter.

With Life for Running Red Light

Cincinnati —(P)— A 15-year-old youth may have to pay with his life for trying to shake off police after driving through a red light on an unauthorized jaunt in his father's car.

Abe Savage, shot in the head, was in critical condition Monday night at General Hospital.

Officers said Larry Parks, 14, tearfully told them that he had pleaded with Savage to stop during a wild, weaving, shot-punctuated chase through city streets.

Investigators said the Savage car bulled through three roadblocks and was finally wrecked at an intersection.

Patrolman Raymond Turner said he pulled alongside the fleeing auto and ordered the boy at gunpoint to halt, but the youth put on a burst of speed.

Turner said he fired twice at the car.

Turner had started the chase after seeing the car run through a traffic signal.

Officers quoted the Parks boy as saying that Savage, when he ran through the red light, said, "Let's go through this and see what happens."

Seeks to Limit Quiz

In trying to limit the current hearing to two days, Kennedy indicated the committee would rely mainly on the statements of position presented yesterday by William B. Prosser, Perfect Circle president, and Raymond 11 Berndt, a UAW international representative. He said one or both might be recalled today.

Prosser told newsmen he wants to refute Berndt's statement that the company gate was not smashed, and that no strikers were on the plant grounds when non-strikers opened fire from inside the New Castle plant.

Prosser and Berndt each swore the other side fired the first shot in a battle that wounded eight persons and prompted then Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana to summon the national guard.

Berndt accused Craig of calling out the troops and imposing martial law "to keep the plants open for scabs to enter." He said the governor broke a pledge to recall the guard when the union made a no-violence pledge. The committee showed no inclination to explore the matter.

Russian Nuclear Tests Boost Radioactivity In Scandinavian Areas

Stockholm —(P)— The last series of Russian nuclear tests has increased radioactivity in some areas in Scandinavia to 25 per cent of what is considered the danger point, the research institute of Sweden's armed forces said today.

Swedish scientists are worried about the concentration of strontium 90, which can cause bone cancer.

Dr. Torsten Magnusson of the institute said "there is no doubt that the alarming increase of radioactivity over the past three months is caused by the intensified Russian nuclear tests."

Ike Nominates Madison Man for U. S. Attorney

Washington —(P)— President Eisenhower Monday nominated George E. Rapp of Madison for a new 4-year term as U. S. attorney for western Wisconsin.

The nomination was sent to the senate for confirmation.

Jasper Reports Harmony in GOP

Madison —(P)— Claude Jasper, Republican state chairman, said Monday night he has found plenty of harmony, enthusiasm and determination among Wisconsin Republicans this year.

Jasper told the University of Wisconsin Young Republicans that his field reports indicate a "tremendous demonstration of party harmony," which "disproves any claims of GOP disunity that the Democrats have been talking so hopefully about."

He said, "Everywhere I have gone, I have found Wisconsin Republicans are ready and willing to go out this summer and fall and do a real job to insure a Republican victory in November."

"Our people are enthusiastic, and they are 'up' for this election," he said.

However Jasper warned that harmony, enthusiasm and determination are "not enough." "We also need the votes," he said.

Lawrence Says: 'Summit' Should Be in Madison Square Garden

If Kremlin Wants Show, Let It Be a Spectacular One

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Some people hereabouts are always urging our own government to take the propaganda "initiative" away from the Soviets. This corresponds to a certain time in the life of a man, when he is now and then, with all due humility, offers a plan that may at least achieve a high point in dramatic technique.

First, inasmuch as the Kremlin wants a "show" or a spectacular demonstration of some kind, let the "summit" conference be a show and let it be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, where it can be witnessed by millions of persons day in and day out.

Second, let an admission fee be charged and the TV rights sold for a big sum. Then let all the proceeds be distributed to the families of the thousands of Hungarian patriots who were killed or maimed in the recent attempt of the Hungarian people to regain their freedom.

Third, if the foregoing—which requires international agreement—cannot be achieved, let there be some "unilateral" decisions made. This means that, without any agreement with the other party, one side takes it upon itself to stop doing certain things that are harmful to people in another country.

Thus, the Soviet government could stop oppressing the people of Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. This is far more important than to stop "testing" nuclear bombs. For it is asserted by the scientists that the amount of radioactivity from nuclear tests isn't any more harmful than medical x-rays or the luminous rays of a wrist watch. As for the police measures taken by the Kremlin to deprive millions of persons in eastern Europe of their liberties, this is much more damaging to mankind. Indeed, many people would prefer death to any enslaved life under communist tyranny.

Another "unilateral" decision Moscow could take would be to open up her radio and television to ambassadors from foreign countries just as America does.

Still another bit of "unilateral" righteousness which the communists could exhibit would be to let law-abiding citizens of other countries travel where they like inside the Soviet Union.

The Soviets might also make a "unilateral" resolution to admit not just a handful of correspondents to reside in Moscow but as many as wish to do so. This is what a free press really means. What are the communists afraid of? Why do they maintain censorship on all outgoing news and radio broadcasts made by correspondents resident in Moscow?

There is another "unilateral" adventure on which Moscow might embark. It could return the territory of east Germany to the people of Germany. This is a step which would do much more to hasten the peace of Europe than any phony gestures about stopping the testing of nuclear weapons.

"Unilateral" is a big word nowadays in the propaganda of the communists. It implies self-denial and a wish to go ahead with good deeds irrespective of whether an adversary does the same. But, strictly speaking, the latest proposal of the Soviets isn't one-sided at all. While agreeing to give up the testing of nuclear bombs for a while, the threat is also made to resume testing later on if the United States doesn't also agree to stop testing. So it's really a maneuver that merely publicizes a fake desire for an international arrangement to stop testing. The United States has all along advocated the same objective but has insisted on a system of safeguards to prevent concealment or cheating.

There is a place where this kind of agreement can be negotiated. It's in the United Nations disarmament commission. But the Soviets have not been willing thus far to go again to that body for further talks. It's really a boycott of the United Nations. The communists seem to prefer the theatrical stuff which, they believe, will deceive the world, including many gullible persons in America.

So maybe the Madison Square Garden idea is the answer after all. Of course, nothing would be agreed to there, but this would

Spring break-ups can break up cars and equipment — but not on all-weather concrete streets

Concrete streets are not subject to the ruts, bumps and chuckholes other types of pavement suffer due to Spring thawing. Cars driven over such broken streets can suffer severe damage as they careen dangerously over craters that can't be avoided.

That's why at the time of the annual Spring break up, motorists seek out concrete streets—where they know there will be no "closed" or "detour" signs—and where every mile is smooth-riding and safe.

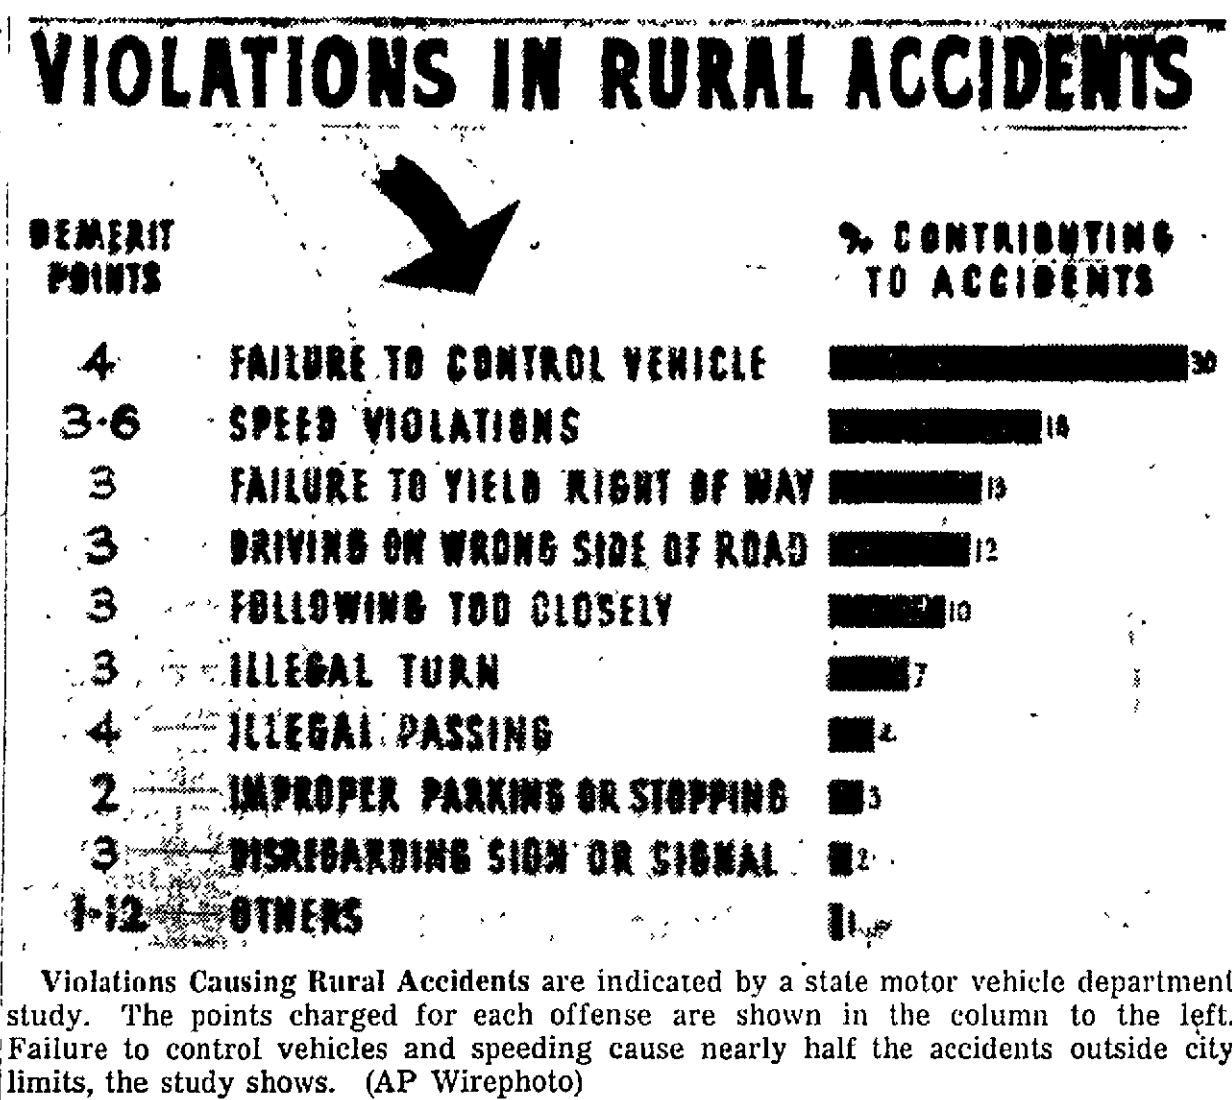

Wet or dry, day or night, year in and year out, concrete is the safest street pavement known to engineering science.

Costly? Not concrete! Concrete pavement actually costs less to build than other pavements designed for the same traffic. Concrete lasts years longer, costs less to maintain. Result: low annual cost to you the taxpayer.

SPRING THAWS CAN'T BREAK UP CONCRETE STREETS

also be true of any other type of conference.

For there will be no peace until menacing dictatorships are overthrown and the world has been made "safe for democracy." This was a World War I slogan, but it is even more pertinent today when some of the large empires of the past which nourished freedom are being broken into fragments due to alleged "nationalistic" feeling, only to have these smaller countries gathered one by one under the yoke of Soviet imperialism. Meanwhile, the remainder of the free world, threatened by aggression, staggers under the heavy cost of armament.

It would be relatively inexpensive to carry the true story to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain so that they will know that the appeasers in our midst are not the spokesmen of the west. It is important that the oppressed peoples should never feel they have been forsaken but that, instead, they can rely on the moral support of the whole world whenever they start breaking the chains of their bondage.

The town of Grand Chute expects expenses of $123,560 in 1958-59, according to a report by the town board of audit.

Expenses include part, but not the major share, of school costs.

Total costs during the 1957-58 fiscal year were $132,978. The town plans to spend about $10,000 less on roads and streets this year, accounting for the bulk of the expenditure decrease.

Street and road costs were $50,618 last year compared to $40,000 estimated for the coming fiscal year.

Under the heading of general government, the following expenses are anticipated: town board, $2,900; clerk, $1,350; treasurer, $1,000; assessor, $1,200; board of review, $280; attorney, $900; elections, $650; town hall operation, $4,400; property and liability insurance, $1,350; and $3,300 for caretaker and helper.

Costs for these items in 1957-58 were: town board, $2,955; clerk, $1,368; treasurer, $972; assessor, $1,043; board of review, $256; attorney, $931; elections, $686; town hall operation, $4,370; property and liability insurance, $4,370; and caretaker and helper, $3,305.

General Government

Under protection of persons and property, the town expects these expenses: constable, $1,000; fire department, $2,200; and weed cutting, $600. Expenses reported for these items in the year ended March 31 were: constable, $1,113; fire department, $2,164; and weed cutting, $601.

The town board of health is expected to cost $400, compared to $411 last year.

Relief payments are estimated at $2,000, compared to $1,836 in 1957-58.

High school tuition payments last year were $43,045. This year's estimate is $44,000. Opportunity school payments are expected to total $600.

The town also expects to pay $400 in tax refunds, $10,300 in school bus transportation costs, and $950 in trailer fees to the school districts.

Last year $457 was paid in tax refunds. A total of $10,137 was paid for school bus transportation and $996 in trailer fee shares.

Ruby Helps Shrink Size Of Universe

New York — A synthetic ruby is helping to shrink the universe for man.

The gem serves as the eye of an amplifying device on a navy radio telescope in Washington. With it, for example, man can "see" Venus 10 times closer.

The amplifier is a point project of Columbia university and the naval research laboratory. It is known as a MASER. Installation of the device was announced Sunday.

Here's how it works:

The ruby heart of the telescope receives radio signals from planets or galaxies at the extremely high frequency of 9,000 megacycles.

When struck by these signals, the gem amplifies the signals by emitting some of its own energy at the same frequency.

The device, says Prof. Charles H. Townes of Columbia, one of the designers, will enable radio telescopes to probe distances into outer space 10 times farther than presently possible.

Townes named the amplifier. MASER means microwave amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

chinese, junk dealer, bartender and trailer licenses.

Last year the town received $1,988 from liquor and malt beverage licenses, $226 from dog license fees and $328 from other licenses and permits.

Gifts and grants should bring in the following revenues: $3,200 in state aid for town roads, $15,000 from highway privilege shares, and $8,000 from liquor tax shares.

Last year gifts and grants brought in these sums: $6,333 in state aid for town roads, $15,628 in highway privilege tax shares and $8,198 from state liquor tax shares.

Special Assessments

Special assessments should produce $9,000 for snow plowing and grading, compared to $10,711 received last year, it is estimated.

Outagamie county payments for relief are estimated to bring $1,000, compared to $267 the previous year.

Aids for school bus service should be $8,000. Last year they totaled $8,112.

Trailer fees are expected to be $1,500, compared to $1,572 in 1957-58.

Feeder Pig Show Expects Swine From 6 Counties

First Sale, Clinic At Seymour Grounds To Draw 20 Pigs

Over 200 feeder pigs will be displayed and judged at the Feeder Pig Show and Clinic at the Seymour fairgrounds Wednesday. Entries have been received from Oconto, Brown, Marinette, Shawano, Winnebago, and Outagamie county swine producers.

Pigs will be exhibited and judged in lots of 10. All pigs are to weigh between 40 and 50 pounds and will be competing for ribbons and premiums. The purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint hog producers with the makeup of a blue ribbon pen of feeder pigs.

The Outagamie County Swine Breeders' association is offering a $10 merchandise certificate as an attendance award. This certificate is redeemable at the Oct. 4 purebred swine sale of the association.

Specialists to Speak

In addition to the feeder pig displays, participants will hear discussions from University of Wisconsin swine specialists on feeding, management, and breeding of feeder pigs. Charles Maass, secretary of the Wisconsin Swine Breeders' association, will discuss the purebred breeder in the feeder pig business.

The show begins at 9:30 with the exhibiting and judging of the pigs and will be concluded in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Lunch will be available at the grounds.

The Seymour FFA is planning a farrowing pen demonstration as an additional feature of the show.

Cooperating are the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing cooperative, Extension Service, Wisconsin Swine Breeders' association, and the various county swine breeders' associations.

Milk Support To Be Higher Than Expected

Readjustment Made On Parity Boosts Prop by Three Cents

Washington — Agriculture Secretary Benson has announced that the new milk and butterfat support prices, which are effective today, will be slightly higher than he had announced earlier.

Benson said Monday milk which is used for manufacturing purposes will be supported at $3.06 per hundred pounds, instead of the $3.03 he announced March 21.

He said the support price for butterfat is 56.6 cents per pound, instead of 56.2 cents.

These slight upward revisions were made to adjust the price to the latest determination of parity, announced last Friday in a farm price report.

Parity is a standard, established by law, for determining the fair price to the farmer for his products in relation to the prices the farmer has to pay.

Effective today, the agriculture department has cut the support prices of both milk and butterfat to the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity.

Until the new marketing year began today, the agriculture department has been using a support price of $3.25 per hundred pounds of manufacturing milk and 58.6 cents per pound of butterfat.

View Tougher Attitude on Pupil Discipline

Board of Education Meets With School Administrators

An indication that school administrators may soon take a tougher attitude toward discipline in city public schools was given Monday night at a meeting of the board of education and the administrators.

School board members had sought the meeting because they wanted to be more fully informed on discipline problems and measures. During the meeting, several board members indicated they would give full support to an administrator who took action against any student that caused a disruptive atmosphere or endangered the health and safety of fellow students.

Herbert Heible, high school principal, said there are presently three times as many discipline problems as there were 10 years ago. But, he added, there are less than there were two or three years ago.

A new problem Heible said he could expect sooner or later would be what to do in case of a high school marriage.

In many of these cases the girl is pregnant and voluntarily drops from school. But, he said, someday one might insist on her right to an education under the law which makes it compulsory for a student to attend school until she is 18.

This would create a serious problem and one that would have to be met, he contended.

Would Limit Dress Some administrators said they would like to have school board support in barring some types of dress from schools—namely duck-tail haircuts, leather jackets and boots.

However, Mrs. Myrl Davis and other board members appeared to doubt they had any right to tell students how to dress or wear their hair.

Supt. of Schools John P. Mann said he was waiting word from the state department of public instruction on whether a student must be admitted to one school after he has been expelled from another.

Mann also said a meeting between police, welfare workers, juvenile court officials and school administrators is in the offing for a general discussion of ways to cooperate in meeting discipline problems in schools.

School administrators cited use of guidance officers, social service workers and juvenile courts as their best means in resolving the problems.

Research Into Spent Liquor Is Increased

Sulphite Mill Problem Hinges on Usefulness Of Lignin Compounds

Intensive study of the characteristics and industrial possibilities in lignin compounds contained in spent sulphite liquor is being undertaken by the Sulphite Pulp Manufacturers' Research League, Averill J. Wiley, technical director, has announced.

Basic purpose of the research program is to help sulphite mills make practical use of spent sulphite liquor that now overflows some rivers, Wiley explained.

He said that processes recently developed in league laboratories and pilot plants can produce large tonnages of wood sugars having industrially desirable qualities. However, manufacturing costs for recovery of these sugars alone are too high to make the products commercially attractive.

Liquor Component Lignosulfonates, another major component of the liquor, are easily separated out in the course of recovering the sugars, Wiley said, and the qualities of these may be widely varied by small shifts in the processing. Desugared lignosulfonates have some commercial uses and industry executive believe these markets can be greatly expanded if the lignosulfonates can be precisely tailored-made to fit the requirements of individual customers.

The league's new research program is designed to study these lignin materials and develop ways to produce them to precision-controlled specifications. Once this is achieved, the industry's technical and marketing men feel sure they can sell the wood sugars at competitive prices—and thus keep the sugars out of Wisconsin streams.

City to Favor Proposed New Route of 41

Will Have Approval Read Into Record at April 10 Hearing

A resolution expressing city favor of a plan to relocate Highway 41 three-fourths of a mile north of the present route will be read into the record at a public hearing on the proposed relocation.

Street and sanitation committee Monday instructed City Clerk Elden Broehm to have the city's view placed in the record by notifying the state highway commission of the council's approval.

The council has passed the recommendation for relocation three-fourths of a mile north. The public hearing is scheduled April 10 at the courthouse.

Other committee business: A name for the College-to-Candee high level bridge will be selected soon by the committee. One committee member said, "I'll tell you one thing, it isn't going to be 'McCarthy bridge.'"

Discussion ended abruptly on that note. The name 'McCarthy bridge' was suggested to the city shortly after the senator died May 2, 1957.

Trench Backfill Sand backfill, it was said, probably is the best available at the lowest price. A suggestion was made that the city use pit-run gravel in backfilling sewer trenches, but it was said the cost would be prohibitive. It was admitted that good pit-run gravel would serve better than sand.

Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski said the committee soon would have to name a part of E. Walter avenue, which will be relocated at the new high level bridge approach.

Redefining of the sick leave policy for city employees was discussed and will be reviewed again at the organizational meeting of the new council when council rules sometimes are rewritten.

The committee was told the board of public works is discussing hiring inspectors for city projects.

Seeper Schedule

Ald. Roy Pointer was told there is no need for putting street sweeping crews on a regular schedule like the garbage trucks since the sweepers, after the annual spring cleanup, normally cover the city once every three weeks.

Street and sanitation departments' employees, it was said, will be permitted to take time off Good Friday, but will not be paid for the time off.

Grades for several streets was adopted and will be sent by the council to the welfare and recreation (ordinance) committee for drafting in ordinance form.

Broehm was instructed to advertise for bids on installation of sewer and water laterals on several streets.

Ald. Thomas Schneider's resolution calling for removal of billboards at E. John street and S. Tehulah avenue was referred to the city attorney and the building inspector for their views.

Young Mark Was Furtive Witness To Christ's Arrest by Soldiers

BY GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The youth pulled a linen wrap about his shoulders and dashed out of the house. He must find them. They probably had gone to their usual place, to the olive press across the valley, to Gethsemane.

He latched the courtyard gate behind him, and struck out at a fast trot down the street.

The hour was past midnight. Most of Jerusalem lay in darkness. But high on the city's farther side, rows of yellow lanterns ringed the temple porches, crowning the eastern hill with fire. It was the Passover season, times of festival.

The young man cut through open squares, taking the shortest route, plunging three steps at a time down the occasional stone stairs descending eastward into the lower city.

Some urgent motive had driven him to quit his home in the third watch of night, and go in search of Jesus and his little band. No one is certain exactly what caused him to go, but he did, and fast, hastily dressed.

John Mark, the gospel writer, was a lad in his teens when Jesus made His final entrance into Jerusalem in the spring month of Nissan, about 29 A. D.

This had been, at first, a jubilant occasion for the friends of Jesus, and Mark's family was among them. They had

(The world has heard much about the principals of the Easter story: Christ Himself, Pilate, Judas, the high priest. But also involved in the great event were obscure persons, mentioned by the gospels only in passing. This is the first of four articles on some of these minor actors, drawn by apparent happenstance into the Easter drama.)

streamed out through Benjamin gate to meet Him, strewing the road with flowers and palm branches.

"Hosanna!" they had shouted. "Blessed be He who comes in the name of the Lord."

Jealous Undercurrent

But amid the adoring fervor were also the muffled sneers, the jealous scowls of the religious rulers. "The world is gone after Him," they said bitterly, wagging their heads.

In the week following, Mark had watched and listened as the tides of destiny whipped about the Master. Mark did not grasp it fully then, but he later would record it, in all its stark implacability.

The reigning Sadducees, who controlled the powerful priesthood, sent agents to harass Jesus, to interrupt His teachings with deceptive questions. But He flung back stunning rejoinders.

He strode into the temple, and drove out the money changers with their bags of shekels and denarii. This is a "house of prayer," He declared. "But you have made it a den of robbers."

Dreadful rumors passed from mouth to mouth that the authorities were bent on destroying Him. Yet, admiring crowds flocked about Him daily, and the bare-chested temple guards hung back, tight-jawed, muttering.

Share Meal

With only a day remaining before the Passover, Jesus and His apostles had come to the upper room to share a festive meal. The spacious, hospitable house of Mark's mother, Mary, was a regular meeting place of the apostles, and most appropriate place for the supper.

Mark had not been present in the room, but the voices, along with the piquant odors of roast lamb and spices, drifted down into the dark court out-bare feet as he fought up the incline.

Then as he neared the walled garden of the olive press, he heard the metal clank of armor and saw the leaping lights of torches. He was too late! Scared, dismayed, he crept forward in the darkness. Then he came upon the scene. He crouched in a thicket, panting.

The white-robed Jesus stood there in a little clearing. His face tired and strained, as the torchlights fell on Him. A knot of priests shuffled forward.

It was a confusing, frightening tableau—the kiss of Judas, branches snapping as the Roman troops approached, the darting lights and shadows, the Apostle Peter swinging a sword, a scream, then Peter and the other apostles scattering, fleeing, and Jesus' steady words of irony:

"Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs to capture Me? Day after day, I was with you in the temple teaching, and you did not seize Me." He paused. "But let the scripture be fulfilled."

Bind Him

Two soldiers grabbed His arms, twisting them behind Him. Then they tied His hands, looped the rope several times around His body and knotted it, leaving a length of rope to lead Him away.

"And a certain young man followed Him, with nothing but a linen cloth about his body." Mark set down this incident years later. No other gospel sources knew about it, for the apostles had run away. But Mark knew, because it must have been he.

As he related, the soldiers spied him trailing along behind the bound Jesus and tried to seize him, grasping his garment. But he squirmed out of his skimpy dress. "He left the linen cloth and ran away naked."

Farm Bureau Bemoans Veto Of Price Bill

Madison — The president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau federation said Monday President Eisenhower's veto of the farm price support freeze bill "is regrettable."

Curtis Hatch of Madison made the comment in a statement.

He went on to say that, despite the veto, there are a number of ways in which Wisconsin's dairy income can be boosted. He listed more cooperative effort in processing and marketing, plus an expansion of a program for culling unprofitable cows from dairy herds.

Hatch said the Farm bureau also is taking another look at local market barriers raised in other states against Wisconsin milk.

In Chicago, Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau federation complimented the president on his "good judgment and courage" in vetoing the bill.

"The legislation was against the best economic interests of farmers. I think it would have been used as an excuse by big government advocates of big government spending for more unnecessary non-agricultural expenditures," he said.

Wisconsin Solons Voice Views On Veto of Farm Price Freeze

Washington — Members of Wisconsin's congressional delegation Monday expressed divided opinions on President Eisenhower's veto of the bill designed to freeze farm price supports at 1957 levels.

Rep. Donald Tewes, R. said, "The southern Democrats insisted on tacking all other commodities onto the legitimate case for dairying. Their strategy was to make it impossible for the president to sign the bill without providing themselves with unwarranted benefits."

Tewes, Wisconsin's 2nd district, added, "If he signed, they had a windfall. If he did not they could piously bemoan

To Your Good Health

Alcoholic Himself, Not His Stomach, Has Liquor Affinity

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Mr. Molner: Will you discuss an alcoholic stomach? Does it cause a person who can't stop with one drink to continue with more?" Mrs. C.R.

I dearly wish that we had some medical answer to this question, but we don't. We know some non-medical ones, however. It isn't an "alcoholic stomach" which causes this problem. It is an alcoholic person. That is a hard answer to accept, sometimes, but I'll tell you this: it is the answer that brings results, once the individual has the wisdom to accept it.

Put it this way. Some people don't have any great desire for alcohol. They can take a drink, or leave it alone. Others, however, have a greater affinity for liquor.

Chain Reaction For them, taking the first drink leads to a chain reaction. If you put such a person on a desert island, where there was no alcohol, he wouldn't suffer particularly. But put him in any average part of the world where liquor exists, and where he has liquor easily available, and he'll take the first drink—and then find it practically impossible to refuse a second, and third, and fourth, if he can get it.

I don't know why this is true. I know a theory or two, but I don't know any proof of the theories. However, it is true. The first drink, for some people, is like the first olive from a bottle, or the first salted peanut. After the first one, the rest come easy.

Many cities and some universities have alcohol clinics or alcohol committees, studying this problem, and trying (with considerable success, too!) to help people who want another and another and another drink after they've had that first one.

In the big cities and small ones, there is also Alcoholics Anonymous, combating the same problem—victims of the "alcohol habit" who have banded together to conquer their problem.

One of their rules is that anyone who has fallen under the curious spell of alcohol, and becomes an alcoholic, has only one salvation: That is to accept the rule that "you can't take the first drink."

As I said, I'm not smart enough to know why, but I'm hard-headed enough to say that if the rule works, it is good. If a human being once gets to the point in which one drink always deserves another, there is only one known answer. Stop taking the first one.

If that seems difficult to do (it will be!) get some help. Go to the nearest alcohol clinic, or look up the closest chapter of AA. If your community doesn't have a group with a phone number, ask your doctor, phone your newspaper, ask your preacher, or if nobody knows, write to me and I'll always help.

See Doctor To "Gretchen": Bad breath most commonly originates in the mouth or teeth, but not always. And a mouth wash, even there, will not be the answer if there is some spot of infection present—and causing odor. For another possibility, not at all uncommon, infected tonsils, or some infection in nose or throat may be the cause, so I'd suggest you have your doctor take a look at mouth, nose and throat, rather than marking time with mouth washes when they don't work. Limited Space Needn't Mean Limited Style

A small bedroom has its limitations—in space, but not necessarily in style. When there isn't room for more than fundamental furnishings, choose those furnishings more carefully than ever. Make sure that they do everything they can for the room's good looks as well as for its comfort and convenience.

The bed can do without a footboard and wear a plain tailored spread to cut down its bulk, but its headboard can be the high point of the room's elegant centerpiece. Swirling tulips are beautifully set off by a simple picot mesh.

decoration. Exuberant curves of metal, perhaps atop wood as sketched, add not an inch to headboard depth, and there's no effect of crowding in the room that there might be with separate wall decorations. A chest that must count to the last corner for storage can finish off with tall mirrors as wide as it is to deliver twice the style of a single, smaller mirror. Mirrors perform their reflecting magic to make the room seem larger. An eye-catcher small table requires no more floor area than stand-pat plain one. (Copyright 1958)

Crippled Children Benefit

'Salad Buffet' Heralds Gay Easter Season at Shriner Event

The festive Easter season was heralded Saturday afternoon when 175 members and guests attended the benefit "salad buffet" luncheon given by the Tripoli unit of the auxiliary to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at the Masonic temple. Card play followed the 12:30 luncheon.

Proceeds of the luncheon, which was open to the public, will be donated to the Shriners fund for the Crippled Children's hospital at Minneapolis. The salad event was a repeat performance for the auxiliary which staged a similar party last fall for its charity program.

Easter Decor Used

Tiny fluffy chicks perched on top of Easter eggs which filled traditional baskets trimming the attractive buffet table. A variety of salads was featured in both toss and mold versions, including meat, fish, cottage cheese, potato, fruit and vegetable dishes.

Buffet arrangements were handled by Mrs. Harry Brinker and Mrs. Kurt Hannemann, co-chairmen of the project. They were assisted by the Mmes. Ben Cherkasky, C. A. Anderson and Mell Buxton.

Contribute Recipes

A tasty fruit salad chuck full of plump strawberries smothered with thick cultured cream was the contribution of Mrs. Harold Podzinski. Glazed berries garnished the attractive ring mold which needs no salad dressing.

The salad recipe calls for the following ingredients:

- 2 packages cherry gelatin mix
 - 1 16-ounce package frozen strawberries
 - 1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
 - 2 cups boiling water
 - 1 pint cultured cream
- Method: Dissolve gelatin mix in 2 cups hot water. Add can of crushed pineapple and frozen strawberries. Fill 9-inch ring mold with half of the mixture and chill. Then add layer of cultured cream and remaining jello mixture and chill again. Garnish with glazed berries.

Tuna 'Fish' Form

Eye-tempting, too, was the tuna fish salad served in the form of a fish. The fish dish, made by Mrs. Mell Buxton, had stuffed olive slices for

"eyes" and was surrounded by a ring of black olives which were ornamented with pimento centers and green pepper strip stems. Radish and turnip roses completed the garnishes.

Tuna Fish Salad

- 4 cans light meat tuna
 - 2 1/2 cups celery, cut
 - 1 cup green stuffed olives
 - 2 cups green pepper
 - 2 tablespoons pimento
 - 2 cups mayonnaise
 - 1 cup onion cut fine
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon red pepper
 - 2 tablespoons gelatin
 - 1 cup cold water
- Method: Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Mix all ingredients well and pour into fish or ring mold. Let set for 10 to 12 hours in refrigerator. Dish will serve 12.

Refuse That Cocktail if Not Desired

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am often invited to business luncheons. Invariably there is a cocktail at each one's place at table. I do not drink anything alcoholic. Would it be proper to offer my cocktail to the person sitting next to me, or should I just leave it untouched at my place?

Answer: Cocktails should certainly not be poured ahead of time and allowed to grow warm waiting at each place at table. They should be passed, at which time you could refuse an alcoholic one and take a tomato or fruit juice one, which should also be on the tray. When you find one at your place as you describe, you may offer it to either of the persons sitting next to you who has finished his (or her) own, or you may leave it untouched to be taken away by the waiter.

On Divorce

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just recently divorced my husband and as I have many friends as well as acquaintances throughout the country, I would like to notify them of this since they will have no way of hearing about it otherwise. Could I send out some sort of announcement to this effect, or just what would you suggest under the circumstances?

Answer: Further than writing personal notes to your really intimate friends, there is nothing you can do. It would be unthinkable to send out general announcements.

Your Problems

Woman Fears Her Dependent Mother Is Ruining Her Chances

BY ANN LANDERS
40 years of age, the only child of a widowed mother. I'm not able to hold any boy or girl friends because my mother thinks she should be included in all my invitations.

I realize she's a little bit of a nuisance, but I also feel that I should be permitted to have a social life of my own. I'm long past the age when I need constant supervision.

I love my mother and I don't want to hurt her feelings, but I'm afraid she's ruining my life. Please put this in the paper. Don't answer through the mail. My mother opens all letters addressed to me and I don't want her to know I wrote to you. When she reads this in your column she may SUSPECT I'm the author of this complaint, but at least she'll have no proof.—JANE.

This sick relationship is not completely your mother's fault. Save a little blame for yourself.

Of course she's wrong to want to horn in on your invitations, but her little plan would never have gotten off the ground if you hadn't tolerated it—way back when.

A girl 40 years of age (this is a girl?) who permits Mama to fasten herself socially, like a barnacle, must have terrific guilt feelings. You need professional help and a place of your own. If you can't afford both, get the professional help so you can at least learn to live with her.

DEAR ANN: It's spring and the Christmas decorations both inside and out are still up. My husband won't life a finger to help me around the house.

I had to finish off the basement play-room. He's always brimming over with ideas when he starts a project, then he loses interest and I must finish it. Last summer I had to paint the outside trim on the house. He put the ladder up for me. The neighbors laughed themselves sick. I was embarrassed to death. What can I do about a man like this?—JAY DEE

If you enjoy doing these things, (and some women do) change your attitude and consider it a money-saving hobby.

If it's plain work and you resent finishing projects your husband starts, then hire a professional to do the odd jobs and pay him union scale.

Be sure to save the receipts for your husband. Maybe THIS will supply the incentive to get him off his porch.

DEAR ANN: I've been married only 22 months and my husband treats me like a dog. He won't give me a quarter of my own. He pays the rent and shops for groceries with me. Sometimes he takes things out of the grocery basket and puts them back on the shelves if he thinks "I don't need it."

If my mother didn't give me a dollar now and then I wouldn't have been able to buy a stamp to mail this letter. I can't go to work because I have two babies. My mother offered to keep them but she's not well and has enough of her own work to do. Please help me.—ASHAMED

Goodie Treat for Work Unkind Gift to Waistline

The woman who tops off a club meeting with a calorie-laden morsel or who treats herself to a piece of pie after an afternoon's ironing is just tormenting her waistline.

In a talk at Farm and Home festival at Urbana, Ill., University of Illinois nutrition specialist Harriet Barto told her audience that many household activities require less energy (which means less calories) than most people realize.

Even without the newer labor and time-saving equipment, a homemaker doesn't work so "hard" as she might think she does.

Burns Up Calories

Miss Barto said that a woman who irons for an hour and then eats a left-over piece of apple pie uses 140 calories for the ironing and consumes about 330 calories in the pie.

Miss Barto's calculations are for an overweight woman 5 feet, 4 inches tall weighing 160 pounds.

Among other common activities, Miss Barto said that sitting for an hour—perhaps reading, riding as a passenger in a car or attending a meeting—requires 95 calories. Driving a car requires 145 calories.

There was no play whatsoever for the contract—no way of North's avoiding the loss of a club trick.

Seven spades, however, would have been easy to make (through no greater effort on South's part than ruffing his second heart in dummy), and so instead of paying out 100 points, North-South should have scored the rather substantial total of 2410 points.

As was indicated originally, the North-South bidding was very fine—up to a point. South's spade response to the two-bid was well reasoned, and North also acted properly in bidding four spades over West's four-heart shutout attempt. Having started with a two-bid, North couldn't afford a higher bid than four spades on Round 2, and in any case a slam was not to be essayed unless South could volunteer further action

Our Children

Privacy of Teenager Should Not be Violated

BY ANGELO PATRI

Mother cannot let her daughter alone because she is intensely interested in all she does, all she thinks, hopes and plans for.

But daughter has a sense of privacy that bids her screen her personal life from the knowledge of others. She, like everybody else, is entitled to this privacy. Also, she should not be subjected to probing. It makes her very uncomfortable, very unhappy.

Children do not like to wound their parents. They love and respect them. They know what they are keenly interested in all they do and all they are and all they are to become. They cannot say this, but they hope their parents know it and do not feel shut out from them when they claim a little personal privacy.

Understanding

At this stage of life girls, and sometimes boys, receive notes through the mails. This excites curiosity among the members of the family and some of them, especially the mother, ask questions.

Parents have certain responsibilities toward their children and one of them undoubtedly is knowledge about their children's associates, but wise parents have long before adolescence set in come to an understanding with their boys and girls so that friendship and its confidences have taken the place of authority. If this has not been accomplished earlier than this note—coming—day it will be hard to establish.

Children of teen ages have the feelings of adults about many things, personal privacy among them, and this should be respected. It must be if any sort of family relationship is to be established.

Depths Could Hide Nuclear Enemy Subs in Event of War

BY EVERETT S. ALLEN
(Written for the Associated Press)

If there's a hiding place anywhere in the nuclear and rocket age, it's in the ocean depths.

Because of this fact, the importance of the submarine in naval planning has risen as steeply as that of the battleship, one-time ruler of the seas, has declined.

In a military deterrent system, staying hidden is a paramount factor.

The National Academy of Sciences sponsored an intensive summer study group at Falmouth, Mass., in 1956. The specific subject matter of the discussion remains top secret, but it had to do with the sea and national security, and the scientific approach to this general field.

The military aspects of the ocean were thought to present a situation sufficiently serious so that 60 to 80 very important people gave up their summer to think about it.

What did they talk about?

Here are some good bets:

The true submarine presumably is just around the corner. To date, the sub has been merely a surface ship that could submerge, but as it advances in technique, it will go deeper—as much as 2½ miles—and stay down longer. Even now, some nuclear-powered subs stay under water for two weeks.

Must Know Ocean

U. S. subs, therefore, must learn to navigate for great stretches without surfacing; their navigators must have knowledge of all dimensions of the ocean, including the underwater reaches.

The navy has long had surface charts of the sea. What it needs for the future are charts of the ocean bottom and how the waters of the seas circulate.

U. S. oceanographers are already engaged on the task of gathering this information. At intervals of roughly 80 miles, their little ships make 5-hour stops to take soundings, check temperatures, salt content, currents, bottom sediment.

The submarine of the future will be specialized; the navy already has a fighter sub, the first step in this direction. Part of the problem of the new submarines in the navy's massive program to go undersea is acoustical. Operating at greater depths is an evolution in the direction of concealment. If they want to remain undetected, ed, submarines must cut down on the noise they make.

Submerged, the submarine uses its electronic and mechanical "ears" to check the target's course and speed. The data it obtains by such listening governs the torpedo settings.

Sound Waves Factor

This dependence on acoustics also offers a remarkable defensive possibility, one about which experts speak only in careful generalities.

This is to fill stretches of the ocean with sound waves—just as broadcasts can be jammed now—and so plug the hostile sub's electronic ears. By using varying frequencies the deafening of friendly subs could be avoided—or the device could be employed in sea areas known to be free of friendly craft.

A sub so attacked by sound would have to surface to find its targets. Once it does that, it has sacrificed its principal advantage—concealment.

Development of such measures are for the future. Meanwhile, it will take some 10 years of hard work before the United States can be sure it has gained clear and overwhelming technical superiority over Russia's existing fleet of some 460 submarines.

ly over Russia's existing fleet of some 460 submarines.

This estimate, based on sound evidence and authoritative opinion, does not take into consideration that period. Presumably, they would be too few to affect the overall situation, and most of the existing undersea craft would still be in operation.

But to help in that crucial struggle for undersea superiority, some top scientists say, the United States should be making four times the effort it is now making in marine science—presently the concern of only a few hundred persons in America.

This small contingent is led by such dedicated scientists as Dr. Maurice Ewing, director of Columbia university's Lamont Geological observatory and Dr. C. O'D. Iselin, director of Woods Hole Oceanographic institution.

The federal government last year spent on oceanography the equivalent of the cost of four miles of highway—and there's every reason to think that this effort is being dwarfed by the Soviet Union.

Minnesota, Ontario Official Sees 1958

Newsprint Price Same

New York—Robert Faegre, president of Minnesota and Ontario Paper company, said he doesn't expect any change in newsprint prices in 1958.

Faegre, speaking to the New York Society of Security Analysts, said, "I honestly don't expect" a price reduction this year. "I don't see any price increase, either," he added.

Newsprint operations account for about 40 per cent of the company's business.

Earnings of the Minneapolis-based company in the first two months of 1958 were "right on the button" with results in the like 1957 months, Faegre said. In the quarter ended March 31, 1957, the company reported per share earnings of 56 cents on sales of $20,302,305.

Although Faegre declined to make a flat forecast of overall results for 1958, he said the company expected to "come out about where we were" in 1957. The company recently reported 1957 earnings of $6,094,301, or $2.37 a share, on sales of $82,019,389.

Desire for Industry Most Valuable Lure

State Development Official Describes Job as Helping Communities to Get New Business

Neenah — The local desire for industry is the most important single feature in the survival of local business and the immigration of new ones, Robert L. Koob, state director of industrial development, told members of the Neenah club and Optimists club Monday noon at a joint meeting.

Koob said that the most important job of his department was helping communities to help themselves keep present industry and acquire new industries. In the last analysis, he said, it is the local communities which must do the selling job to industry.

The director listed the personal property tax assessed against businesses as "the most onerous burden" on industry, and said it was a major factor in Wisconsin businesses moving to other areas or showing reduced profits.

Koob's department assists state industries in alleviating this and other problems, he said. He noted the story of the industry in the small city in the southern part of the state that was about to consolidate with a large firm and shift operations out of Wisconsin because of this state's taxes.

Business Expanded
After consulting with the company's executives and accountants and the state tax department, an equitable solution to the firm's problem was worked out. The consolidation went through, but instead of moving away the company bought new land in the community and brought new business into the city.

Most of the department's time is taken up with serving local and prospective industries with plant location data. Koob said. Industries choose their locations for only one reason — economy — and the department is often called upon to supply wage, labor supply and transportation information.

D. K. Brown
Koob listed as one of his department's achievements the formation of a committee of 12 retired industrialists to serve the needs of small businesses. On the committee from this area is D. K. Brown, retired president of the Neenah Paper company. This committee, less than a year old, has already served about 60 small industries which have been faced with problems peculiar to businesses of their size. The industrial development division itself has only been operating for two years.

The speaker said that the state is beginning a series of national advertisements to encourage new industries to establish themselves here. The ads, to be printed in U. S. News and World Report, the Wall Street Journal and similar organs, will tell stories of unique situations which faced local industries. The first is to be the story of the All-American Scoreboard company, Pardee-Thursdays noon at the Valley Inn, Harold Nelsen, owner of the Tip Top Radio and TV shop in Menasha, will speak.

PSC Approves Oshkosh Water Plant Addition

Madison — The public service commission Monday authorized $471,973 worth of improvement at the Oshkosh water treatment plant, according to the Associated Press.

The city plans to build a pre-treatment settling basin which will allow the copper sulphate additives more time to react on the algae which the utility removes from the water taken from Lake Winnebago.

The settling basin would permit up to seven days of retention of the mixture of water and copper sulphate before the water passes into other treatment facilities.

The water from the lake contains a very large amount of algae and the retention time has not been sufficient to provide complete reaction.

Filling Station Theft Nets $117

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — Burglars obtained $117.20 in a theft during the night at the Pure Oil station at the Valley Fair shopping center. The burglary was discovered at 4:48 this morning by Appleton police.

Entry was made by using a bar to pry open the east door of the filling station. The money was in a cash box which was thrown into the Fox river at Appleton. It was retrieved about 4 o'clock this morning by Harold Simon, 1710 E. Pauline street, Appleton, who found it floating at the flume at the Telulah mill of the Fox River Paper corporation. Simon, a turbine operator, turned the cash box over to Appleton police.

Anthony Czarnik, 200 W. Prospect avenue, manager of the station, told Winnebago county sheriff's police he had locked up the station about 9:20 Monday night. The money included seventy $1 bills, two $20 bills and $7.20 in new 1957 dimes.

Arrival of Spring Marked by Singing Girls Jumping Rope

Neenah — Almost as soon as the last snowflake floats lazily toward earth and long before green buds appear on the barren trees, the chanting voices and bouncing pigtails of little girls jumping rope herald the arrival of spring.

The origin of this childhood pastime has not been set with any one group, but records indicate games are almost as old as civilization, itself. In this country, skipping and jumping rope was a popular activity among colonial children.

Although skipping rope is just fun for most children, models and those people seeking model-figures find it a good form of exercise. Prize fighters, too, have long used this activity as a means of keeping in condition.

In Peru, school children play a related game, "el reloj" or "the clock." The object of the game is for the children to go through the numerals on the face of a clock by the number of times the player jumps in the swinging rope twirled by two players.

Repeating chants or jingles or creating one spontaneously in rhythm with the jumping seems to make the game more fun. The chants appear to be as old as the game itself, some from Mother Goose rhymes which have an English ancestry, while others are of French origin and still other jumping chants originated in colonial days.

Double Dutch — "Double Dutch," an advanced form of jumping is played by having two children turn two ropes simultaneously with one rope twirling clockwise and the other, counter-clockwise.

For group activity, players line up one behind the other and each in turn runs in and jumps once and runs out again, with two players turning a rope about 15 feet long. When all have jumped once, the children repeat the performance jumping two times, then three, four until they miss a jump.

Among the favorite verses used when two players turn the rope while other children take turns jumping is Teddy Bear:

Teddy bear, teddy bear turn around,
Teddy bear, teddy bear touch the ground.
Teddy bear, teddy bear show your shoe,
Teddy bear, teddy bear now ski-doo.

The verses continue with climbing the stairs, saying your prayer, turning off the light and spelling out the letters of good night. Using the same method of play, the verse rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief; doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief; tinker tailor, cowboy, sailor, is chanted.

Certain to appear in any collection of jumping verses is: "Red hot in the pot, Got to get over what the leaders got." The game begins slowly and winds up fast as the jumper chants the verse as fast as possible.

Another old favorite is: Mother, mother I am ill, Send for the doctor on the hill.

In came the doctor, in came the nurse, in came the lady with the alligator purse.

Measles said the doctor, measles said the nurse, measles said the lady with the alligator purse.

Out walked the doctor, out walked the nurse, out walked the lady with the alligator purse.

Most people will remember some version of this chant, which is supposed to have originated in the south:

Grace, Grace, dressed in lace Went upstairs to powder her face.

How many boxes did she use? 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

One heard on Twin City school grounds goes like this: Mother, mother, have you heard?

Papa's going to buy me a mockingbird.

If that mockingbird don't sing, Papa's going to buy me a diamond ring.

If that diamond ring turns to brass, Papa's going to buy me a looking glass.

If that looking glass gets broke, Papa's going to buy me a billy goat.

If that billy goat runs away, Papa's going to buy me a load of hay.

If that load of hay gets wet, Papa's going to whip me until I sweat.

A verse chanted today by little girls, which was popular at the time of their mother's childhood days is:

Strawberry shortcake, blueberry pie,
What are the initials of my new guy?
a, b, c, d, e, f, —

Dish Pad Made of Straws, Beads Useful Gift for Mother

BY CAPPY DICK

A hot-dish pad made of 13 small beads and 24 pieces of soda straw is a useful gift to make for Mother. Use paper straws because they will be unaffected by the heat.

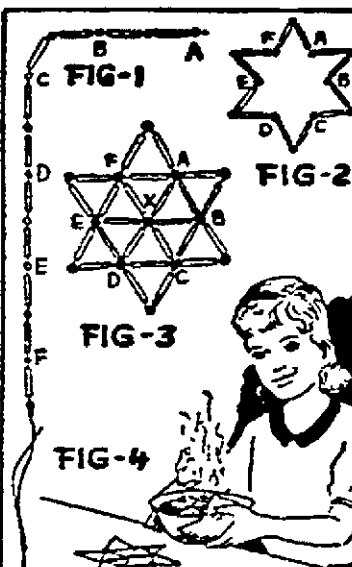

Cut 24 pieces of straw, each an inch and a half long. Thread a needle with a very long, stout thread. Then string 12 beads through Bead C, and so on until the six sides have been formed. Your needle is now back at Bead A and you are ready to add the six spokes at the center of the straw, plus the center bead marked X in Figure 2.

String a straw, a bead and another straw and run the needle and cord through Bead B. This will form the two spokes marked A and XB.

Pass the needle through straw BC and Bead C, add a straw and put the needle through Bead X. String another straw and pass the needle through Bead D, completing two more spokes.

In the same way form the spokes marked EX and FX. Knot the string, completing the hot-dish pad (Figure 4). (Copyright, 1958) and 12 straws (Figure 1), alternating them after starting with a bead.

Lay the string of beads and straws on the table in the form of a six-pointed star as in Figure 2. Don't crowd the pieces; allow enough space at both sides of each bead so you can see the string. To close the star formation, pass the needle and thread through the first bead you strung. For example if the bead marked "A" in Figure 2 was the first bead, run needle and thread through it again.

The next step is to put six straws to the star to form a hexagon as in Figure 3. As you pass the needle and thread through Bead A a second time string a new straw then pass the needle through Bead B. String another new straw and pass the needle

by John L. Paustian

Unless I miss my guess, the all-state basketball team which appears elsewhere on this page today will raise more than a few eyebrows. It must indeed seem odd to area fans that Jack Ulwelling, a first teamer in 1957 who had an even greater year in 1958, is relegated to the second team. My capsule explanation as a member of the selections committee is that Ulwelling was a victim of circumstances. In the first place, two of the three forecourt positions went to this area (Shawano's Marty Gharritty and Green Bay's Tom Hughbanks) before the guards were even picked. With some committee members "distribution minded," even Bob Boushy would have had trouble being named a first team guard if he had come from this area of the state. Secondly, Ulwelling didn't have the state tourney exposure of Madison's Bob Powers and Milwaukee's Jim Kimble.
Last year, the committee largely by-passed state tourney work and based selections on full-season performances—and only one state meet player was named. This year, the pendulum swung the other way, and three of the first five choices played in the state meet spotlight. Make no mistake about it, this business of picking the best five —or even the best 15—players in the state is a tough job.
Maybe it shouldn't even be attempted. But, as long as it is, it seems an injustice not to start with someone like Ulwelling about whom there is such general agreement.

Showered With Praise From Many Sources

man's nor one city's opinion. Here is a sampling of remarks from "neutrals" heard during the season. "Ulwelling is one of the real fine players in the state," was the unsolicited comment of UW assistant coach "Fritz" Wegner at a news conference when everyone else was rating state tourney players. "Best FRVC guard I have seen in 12 years," said a writer from a FRVC city. "Best in the state—a letter all-around player than Gharritty," said one area coach. "Greatest prep shooting I've seen in years," said one "Buck" Batterman after Ulwelling's 13-basket joint told Green Bay West's 6-game winning streak and title opos. "Reminiscent of Dike Edelman of Illinois, whom I saw in his high school days" said a veteran Green Bay announcer. "As good as any in the state—they don't come any better," declared an area coach. "Jack Ulwelling, one of the best young prep players in the state, put on a great show of passing for Pond's Sports," was the lead item in a story the Green Bay Press-Gazette carried about the MCA tournament of champions that featured four games and a galaxy of other stars the night Ulwelling played. Inidentally, Ulwelling also shot about 50 per cent and scored 5 points in that game as he proved to me that he could hold his own with and against players that were more experienced and more mature.

And, so it goes. It boils down to Ulwelling's ability to more than match the talents of Powers and Kimble, floor-lay-wise and being a better scorer besides. Ulwelling totaled 1,457 points to 298 for Powers. Kimble tallied only 221 points. Those who have seen Ulwelling play prep ball will member him as one of the most exciting players in years.
No all-state oversight can diminish his stature.
The overabundance of outstanding guards produced by this area this season also worked hardships on others. Bill elton, Manitowoc's firebrand, is a third-team choice, hile John Cantwell and Ron Brault had to settle for honorable mention.

Pirates Rock Buhl, Nudge Braves, 4-3

Burdette Blanks Bucs In 4 Frames

Fort Myers, Fla. —(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates chipped an assortment of eight hits off Bob Buhl in the final five innings and beat the Milwaukee Braves, 4-3, Monday.

viewed by 1,530 fans, including Gov. and Mrs. Vernon Thomson of Wisconsin.
The Pirates and the Braves journeyed to Bradenton where their game today is the final spring contest at the Milwaukee training camp.

One Gets Hit Remarkable Lew Burdette pitched the first four innings Monday, facing the minimum of 12 batters. One Pirate got a hit off Burdette, but the base runner was erased in a double play.

Burdette, whose single was the only Milwaukee hit in the first two innings, left the game with the Braves ahead, 3-0.

The Braves scored their runs off young George Witt. Eddie Mathews singled with one out and scored when Frank Torre doubled with two away. Rookie Earl Hersh then homered over the right center field fence.

and promptly lost two runs on Frank Thomas' double, Robert Clemente's single and Gene Baker's triple.

Thomas tied the score with a home run at the start of the ninth. "Red" Schoendienst then bobbled Clemente's roller, and Baker sacrificed the runner to second. Hank Foiles singled, and Clemente scored on a plate decision that angered the Braves.

Henry Aaron, in right field, grabbed Foiles' bouncing single and rifled the ball to the plate in what seemed to be plenty of time, however umpire Hal Dixon called Clemente safe.

Manager Fred Haney and other Braves swarmed upon the umpire after his game-ending decision, but the umpire, as usual, already had voiced the final word.

Japan's Nakamura Is Masters Threat

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

Augusta, Ga. —(AP)— Tradition is that the hotshot in practice is usually the tournament bust, but don't bet on it in the case of Torakichi "Pete" Nakamura, the watch-charm golfer from Japan.

Pete defies all reason. He has the staid Augusta National tournament opens Thursday buzzing as it has seldom buzzed before.

On his first trip around the par 72 layout Monday, Pete shot a 69. He played the back nine in 31, five under par.

Coach Jerry Grunski, in his second season as Trucker lettermen around whom to build a team. The four monogram winners are all seniors who played on the club which wound up in third place in Mid-Eastern conference last year with a 3-3 record.

Charlie Moder is an outfield

and "B" squads and took the school RBI title with 12.

Terry Lichtenberg hit only

and Dan McDowell, Oconto.

repeater, probably ranks as the most prolific scorer in state prep history. In his final season in the State Line league, he scored 937 points. His 4-year career total is 2,265.

44-Point Explosion

Gharritty finished the season with 706 points, including a record-shattering single game explosion of 44 points in the state tournament against Eau Claire.

Hughbanks is the tallest player on the first team at 6-4. He was a unanimous choice for the all-Fox River Valley conference team because of his outstanding rebounding ability and the workhorse role he played for East. Hughbanks scored 501 points.

Syracuse, N. Y. — (AP) — The first score to show real promise of gaining a championship in the fifty-fifth American Bowling congress tournament was up on the board today.

Perry's News of Rome, N. Y., rolled a 949-985-882—2,806 series in the third day of action to take command of the booster division. It was the best score in the 850-and-under average category to be recorded since 1954. Rea Cress of Junction City, Kan., won the booster championship in Fort Worth, Tex., last year with 2,796.

Perry's will be challenged by over 2,500 hooster teams in the remaining 69 days of the tournament.

The Phillips Equipment team of Harrisburg, Pa., clung to the lead on the open team division with the 2,945 it posted Sunday. Jack Blevins of Macomb, Ill., claimed the early reign of the singles division after rolling a 172-244-267—683 set. The 31-year-old carpenter's finale was the highest single game of the tournament thus far.

Norm Wooster, 43, a postal clerk from Warren, Pa., chalked up a 9-game total of 1,841 to become the new all-events leader.

It's Difficult to Find Any Hint Of Complacency in Braves' Camp

BY JACK HAND

Bradenton, Fla. — (AP) — The Milwaukee club has come of age. Hardened in the fire of a fierce pennant race and a tense world series, the Braves tossed off all "choke up" talk last October. Now they wear the proud stamp of champions. Complacency always is a problem with a winner after a winter on the banquet circuit and reading the fan magazines. It is difficult to dig out any hint of such conduct. Manager Fred Haney seems to have handled that.

"If you think you are champions," Haney told his men, "remember, that was last year. This year we haven't done a thing. It's going to be harder than it was last season."

More Money
Some of the players held out for more money. Lew Burdette, the series ace, didn't sign up until the spring games were well along.

"We have practically the same club that ended last year," said Haney. "Last year at this time we didn't have 'Red' Schoendienst," he went on. "We didn't have Wes Covington. Or rather we had him but we weren't playing him. We didn't have Bob Hazle."

"We have improved some by getting Bob Rush and Casey Wise from Chicago. The rest of the league will be better and I think we have kept pace."

"Our pitching is sound and deep," said Haney. "Our catching is adequate. Our infield is a little deeper with Wise to help Felix Mantilla as our bench crew. You won't find any better defensive men in the league and Wise has been hitting close to .500 all spring.

"In the outfield we will be all right although Bill Bruton still is out. He won't be ready to start but we hope to have him back soon. His knee is coming along pretty good."

Hank Aaron (.322), the league's most valuable player and major league home run and RBI champ, will fill in for Bruton in center just as he did last season from July on. Covington (.284) will be in left and probably Hazle (.403), relieved by Andy Pafko (.277) in right. Haney has been using Earl Hersh (.269) but 26 homers at Wichita) on first base as well as the outfield. Ray Shearer (.316 at Wichita) and Al Spangler, back from the army, are the reserves.

Will Platoon
Haney undoubtedly will platoon: Joe Adcock (.287) and Frank Torre (.272) at first base. Adcock, who broke a leg last June, barely got back in time for part time duty in the series.

Schoendienst (.309) is the second baseman with Johnny Logan (.273) at shortstop and Ed Mathews (.292) at third.

Del Crandall (.253) is the No. 1 catcher with help from Del Rice (.229) and Carl Sawatsky (.238).

The pitching is formidable with Warren Spahn (21-11), the southpaw ace who will be 37 in late April, heading the staff. Burdette (17-9) and three world series victories) come right behind. Bob Buhl (18-7), Rush (6-15 with the Cubs) and lanky Gene Conley (9-9) are the other starters.

Crandall Says No Surgery Is Needed

Catcher Expects To Be Ready for Season Opener

Bradenton, Fla. — (AP) — Catcher Del Crandall of the Milwaukee Braves says no surgery is needed for his injured right elbow and he'll be ready to play in 10 days.

Crandall's elbow was examined again Monday by Dr. Michael Di Cosola, an orthopedic surgeon at Sarasota, Fla.

Shots and Pills
"He bent the elbow back twice during the examination and did feel something there," said Crandall, "but it was not as prominent as before and Dr. Di Cosola expects to get rid of it altogether. As of now, he says surgery will not be necessary."

The Braves catcher said the physician gave him "seven shots" and prescribed "pills

Crandall added, "I should be ready for the season opener."

He said that in the meantime he will take it easy, confining himself for the next week to swinging a fungo bat "just to get the exercise going."

Crandall said, "After seven days, I'll be able to take regular batting practice for another three days. Then I'll be able to get right in there on a full-time basis."

Boxing Probe Begins

'The Mink' Denies He Is Front Man for Underworld Figure

New York — (AP) — Fight Manager Hymie "The Mink" Wallman, who spends most of his time in the fur business, not only denied he was a front man today, but he claimed the district attorney's men could be more thorough.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scotti had claimed Wallman was a front man for Frankie Carbo, an underworld figure. Scotti, in fact, called Carbo "the underworld czar of boxing in this state" and added that he was an absentee boss who spends most of his time in Florida.

"I have never been a front man for anyone," scowled Wallman. "The fighters in my stable are my own and no one else's."

Then, his attorney, Michael Kern, added that the district attorney's men "had overlooked as many records as they took" when they grabbed off Wallman's papers last week.

Wallman, who manages Alex Miteff, Ike Chestnut, Orlando Zueleta and Charlie Cotton among the headliners, turned the overlooked records into the grand jury investigating boxing Monday. He was one of the dozen or so figures subpoenaed by Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan in an investigation of professional boxing.

Howie Johnson Wins First Major Title

Wilmington, N. C. — (AP) — Howie Johnson won his first major golf tournament Monday, defeating Arnold Palmer in their 18-hole playoff in the Azalea Open.

Victory was worth $2,000 to Johnson. He had won only $1,578 in official money previously this year. Palmer's $1,500 runnerup check brought his year's total to $8,600.

Palmer charged himself with an extra stroke on the 14th green. He said his ball moved as he was preparing to putt it the first time. The penalty gave him five on the par-4 hole. Johnson took a six on the same hole, using two shots to get out of a trap.

Johnson, outwardly calm, betrayed nervousness when he hit first off the eighteenth tee although the honor actually was Palmer's. Johnson didn't know of his breach of golfing etiquette until advised of it a half-hour later.

'Kid' Bassey Favored, 2-1 Over Moreno

Defends 'Feather' Title Tonight In Los Angeles

Los Angeles — (U) — The world featherweight champion's hip and fierce national pride will be at stake tonight when Hogan "Kid" Bassey goes against Ricardo "Pajarito" Moreno for 15 rounds or less at Wrigley field.

Bassey, the 25-year-old champion from Nigeria, West Africa, remained a 2-1 favorite. It is his first defense as king of the 126-pounders.

Promoter Cal Eaton predicted a crowd of 20,000 or more, with a gate of $200,000.

Moreno, 21-year-old knockout sensation from Mexico City, has the backing of thousands of his countrymen who have come North for the fight. He also has two unusually large fists.

Calmly Confident The Bassey camp was calmly confident of victory.

The belligerent tone from the Moreno forces was set by "Pajarito" Little Bird himself. Told that Bassey's handlers had refused to use a Mexican-made glove, the bird exclaimed: "I don't care what kind of gloves we use, or if we use any gloves at all."

The fight will not be televised or broadcast.

Bassey goes into the scrap with 20 straight victories and an overall record of 61 fights, 50 wins (17 by way), 10 losses, 1 draw. He said he owes it to his supporters at home to win.

Moreno in his 33 matches has never won except by a knockout. He has lost two, one via a knockout, and was held to a draw in another.

is reluctant to single out any individual player on his fine team, but when pressed he mentions the 5-11 Kimble as the key to the Blue Devils' outstanding season.

"He was our floor leader," Anderson says of Kimble. "He set the pace for us and never got rattled."

Kimble scored 221 points this season, including 44 in the state meet.

Powers was voted the Big Eight's most valuable player. He was handicapped by the effects of an attack of virus pneumonia part of the season. He played at times when he should have been on the bench — or at home. He scored 171 points against North in the state championship game at Madison "playing on guts alone," according to his coach, Verlyn Belisle.

The 6-2 Powers finished the season with 298 points.

Hassle Over Entry Fees

George May Cancels 'World' Golf Tourneys

Chicago — (U) — George S. May, who has distributed nearly two million dollars in golf purses in the past 17 years, has canceled the Tam O'Shanter "World" tournaments—riches in the game's history.

May's action, announced Monday night in a letter to the Professional Golfers' association, wiped out the 1958 prize list worth $210,000. Other tournaments held in conjunction with the World were also canceled.

May said financial disagreement with the PGA, particularly over the organization's demand for entry fees, was the reason.

Writes Letter "We are taking this action because we are being deprived of revenue—entry fees—which we sorely need to keep on presenting the world's richest golf tournament," said May in a letter to J. Edwin Carter, tournament bureau manager of the PGA.

May said last year "our entry fees totaled $22,115" and pointed out that the PGA this

Training Camp Sidelights

Pierce Cinches Opening Day Pitching Chore

Tampa, Fla. — (U) — There appears to be no question as to whom the Chicago White Sox will start in their American league opener against Detroit two weeks from today.

Southpaw Ace Billy Pierce, a 20-game winner the past two years, ended speculation Monday with another masterful pitching performance in beating St. Louis, 7-0.

Pierce worked seven innings and allowed only one hit, a fluke infield roller by Wally Moon. Pierce now has hurled 11 successive scoreless innings and has an 0.82 earned run average for the 22 exhibition innings he has worked.

Mesa, Ariz. — (U) — Dave Hillman, 30-year-old right-hander from Kingsport, Tenn., is off to a great start this season.

Hillman, 6-11 last year, became the first Cub to go the route Monday when he blanked Baltimore, 1-0, on three hits. He has worked 22 innings this spring and has allowed only one run for an earned run average of 0.41, less than one-half run per nine innings.

Against Baltimore, Hillman has pitched 15 shutout innings and has yielded only four hits.

Clearwater, Fla. — (U) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts says he doubts if the world champion Milwaukee Braves are as good as the great Brooklyn Dodger teams of the 1950's.

Two Projects Are Snagged In Objections

Street Committee
Shelves One, Asks
Study of Other

Two proposed minor improvement projects became snagged Monday by objections of abutting property owners.

As a result, the proposed curb, gutter and gravel project on Alton court from E. Alton street south was shelved and the proposed sidewalk for the west side of N. Meade street from E. Byrd street to E. Pershing street was postponed for study.

Ald. Harry D. Roubesh asked for the Alton court work at the last council meeting, but submitted a letter of withdrawal to the street and sanitation committee after three property owners filed a remonstrance.

Ald. Donald Mueller asked for the sidewalk. Committee-men put off the work after two property owners told them they are the only ones who will have to pay and they were not consulted.

Asphalt Mat

Ald. William F. Ertl's request for curb, gutter and 11-inch asphalt mat on N. Elinor street from W. Brewster street to W. Taylor street and on W. Brewster street from N. Morrison street to N. Outagamie street was approved.

Ald. Robert Stumpf's request for relaying sanitary sewer in the 100 and 200 blocks of E. Taft avenue was approved. How much the city will pay of construction costs will be decided by the board of public works. The existing sewer is too shallow and was laid by the former Bucholz sanitary district before the area was annexed to the city. Stumpf wanted the work done at city expense.

Ald. Kenneth Priebe's plan to cut down the boulevard at the northwest corner of E. South River street and S. Lawe street was approved. Concrete steps will be rebuilt west of the present location to improve visibility for drivers of vehicles.

Sanitary Sewer, Water

A preliminary resolution calling for sanitary sewer and water main construction was adopted. Sanitary sewer and water will go into E. Jardin street from N. Plateau street 220 feet east, S. Telulah avenue from E. Fremont street to E. McKinley street and into E. McKinley street from S. Carpenter street east. Sanitary sewer only will go into E. McKinley street from S. Jefferson street to S. Madison street.

Sidewalk for S. Carpenter street from E. Dennison street to E. Calumet street will be constructed where there is none now at the request of Ald. Priebe. The work will be done after scheduled curb and gutter is complete. The street is next to the new Madison Junior High school.

Installation of gas mains on S. Lee street from E. Candee street north 205 feet, E. Maple street from S. Lawe street 140 feet east, E. McArthur street from N. Oneida street to N. Morrison street, N. Morrison street from E. McArthur to E. Greenfield street and on E. Greenfield from N. Morrison east was approved.

Street Signs
Street signs, as requested by Ald. Gerald Wagner, were ordered for W. Parkway boulevard and N. Alvin street, W. Parkway and N. Erb street and W. Parkway and N. Harriman street.

Sidewalk, requested by Ald. Roy Pointer, was ordered for the east side of N. Meade street from E. Woodland avenue to E. Glendale avenue where there is none now.

Installation of a storm sewer, requested by Pointer, was ordered from E. Wisconsin avenue to the lot line between 1325 and 1329 N. Rankin street.

Communist Hungary to Mark Robeson Birthday

Vienna—F—Communist Hungary is celebrating the 60th birthday of American Negro singer Paul Robeson April 10 with special theater performances in Budapest.

Songs Robeson helped make famous also will be played and sung in provincial theaters and factories, Budapest radio said.

A Contrast in Airplanes
Shows up this morning at Outagamie County airport as a "little fellow," owned by Airport Manager Max A. Sagunsky, nestles under the U. S. air force Hercules, an assault-type craft. Piloted by Capt. H. W. Blanshan, who hails from Seymour, about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. Blanshan and his crew, co-pilot and engineer, stopped overnight in Appleton because of weather conditions. They took off for Little Rock Air Force base, Little Rock, Ark., at noon today. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Priebe Wants Wells Reopened

Says Council Should Do Something for Fluoride Opponents

Ald. Kenneth Priebe today filed a resolution at city hall asking all wells the city owns in parks and on school grounds be renovated with new pumping equipment and the latest safety devices.

His resolution says he believes the more than 5,000 voters on record in opposition to fluoridation deserve consideration from the council.

Safety Hazard

Priebe says there are a number of wells on city property which have been permitted to deteriorate and, in that condition, constitute a safety hazard. The safety devices he is seeking, he said, include means of eliminating the dangers from a deep hole as well as assuring safe water.

The resolution will be presented to the city council Wednesday night.

Police Reelect Van Heuklon Head Of Protective Unit

Patrolman Kenneth Van Heuklon has been reelected president of the Appleton Police-men's Protective association. Patrolman—Merlyn Brux—was elected vice president succeeding Detective Donald Paulie and Patrolman Earl Jackson was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Patrolman Vernal Remter was named to the board of directors for three years. He succeeds Patrolman Edward Arlt.

Jackson, Arlt and Patrolman Wayne Huebner were named to represent the Appleton department at the state convention in Eau Claire May 19 and 20. Detective Norbert Marx also will attend the convention as a member of the state board of directors.

Policemen voted to sponsor two delegates from Appleton High school to the state youth board meeting in Fond du Lac April 15. The students will be selected by school authorities.

4 Property Owners Ask City to Give Up Land in Their Favor

Four property owners today asked the city to abandon in their favor three pieces of city-owned land.

Paul Noffke wants the street right-of-way for N. Racine street north of E. Lindbergh street abandoned in his favor. He owns both abutting lots.

John Noffke wants the right-of-way for N. Rankin street north of E. Lindbergh abandoned in his favor. He also owns both abutting lots.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Kies want a 7-foot, 5-inch strip which the city owns adjacent to their property in the 200 block on S. Outagamie street. The strip, they say, is unusable by the city.

The requests will be forwarded to the city council Wednesday night and probably will be referred to the street and sanitation committee for recommendation.

Assault-Type Hercules Plane Puts Down at County Airport

That big plane with its 110-foot wingspread that settled down at Outagamie County airport at about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon is an assault-type air force ship, Hercules, skippered by Capt. H. W. Blanshan, whose home town is Seymour.

He and his crew were en route to their home base at Little Rock, Ark., after completing a mission of hauling supplies to a northern base. Since weather conditions indicated they couldn't make Little Rock, they decided to put down in Blanshan's home territory. The three men took off at noon today from the airport.

Capt. Blanshan, his co-pilot, Lt. Col. Edward Cadger, and his engineer, Tech. Sgt. Allan Nels, were overnight guests at the P. J. Heenan home, 537 W. Prospect avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Heenan are the parents of Blanshan's wife, Patricia. The captain's mother, Mrs. Fern Blanshan, lives in Seymour.

In discussing the plane, Capt. Blanshan said that it is is a craft noted for its quick landing and take-off, which it can do in the space of 800 feet. It is capable of landing on any terrain behind enemy lines in a limited space, he said, explaining that the plane is used for hauling paratroopers, other personnel and supplies.

It has a take-off weight of 54,000 pounds, which means it can carry a cargo load of 13,000 pounds or 60 paratroopers, he said. The craft can fly for 13 hours at a stretch without refueling, the airman explained.

Capt. Blanshan has been in the air force for 12 years. At Little Rock Air Force base he is the officer in charge of the 310th field training detachment. This means he operates a ground school for the air crews and maintenance personnel for the strategic B-47 bombers. Thirty instructors work under his supervision.

The Blanshans live at Little Rock with their four children, Peter, 5, Patricia, 4, Kevin, 3, and Priscilla, 1.

Mead Corp. Profit Fell in '57; Sales Rose to New High

Cleveland—Net income of Mead corporation in 1957 fell from the year before despite a slight rise in sales to a new high.

Earnings in 1957 fell to $11,930,142, equal to $2.94 a common share, from $14,186,767, or $3.73 a share, in 1956. Sales rose a bit to $192,805,878 in 1957 from $192,548,200 in the year earlier. Results for Atlanta Paper company, acquired in May, 1957, have been included for both years.

H. E. Whitaker, chairman, and D. F. Morris, president, blamed the earnings decline on higher costs of materials, freight, labor and miscellaneous supplies, together with heavy fixed charges when facilities were not operated at full capacity.

Orders in the early part of 1957 resulted in full running time for most of the company's plants, but they declined throughout the year, taking the sharpest drop in the last quarter. Suspension of publication of magazines of Crowell-Collier Publishing company, a major customer, resulted in a loss of tonnage that was difficult to replace in the declining market.

Inventory liquidation by customers continued into early 1958 and "it now appears clear that production capacity is more than ample to meet demand for many months ahead," Whitaker and Morris commented.

Capital expenditures in 1957 totaled $19,262,808, and Mead said it plans to continue these expenditures at about the same rate in 1958. Part of the 1958 outlay will be used to complete paper machines at the Chillicothe Paper company and Hurlbut Paper company subsidiaries.

The company plans to step up spending in its research and development department "to enable us to improve our coating and paper manufacturing process as well as to develop new products."

Burner Code Sent Council For Last Time

The once-controversial trash burner ordinance will be voted on for the last time Wednesday night by the city council, the welfare and recreation (ordinance) committee decided Monday.

The proposed ordinance would require all trash burners to be kept no closer than five feet from any public sidewalk, trees, shrubs, bushes or fence and no closer than 10 feet from any building when in use.

It also forbids open fires within 30 feet of any building, trees, shrubs, bushes and sidewalk. Wire used for covers and sides may not be smaller than No. 8 wire and the mesh cannot be more than an inch across.

Violators are subject to a $10 fine.

Debra Paget Plans to Divorce David Street

Hollywood—F—Five-times married David Street will be sued for divorce by Actress Debra Paget, the bride's mother says.

Mrs. Margaret Gibson said yesterday that her daughter will file the suit in Juarez, Mex., or Mexico City some time this week.

Miss Paget, 23, married the 37-year-old singer about 10 weeks ago, only a few days after he and his fourth wife, actress Sharon Lee, were divorced. It was Miss Paget's first marriage.

Puget Sound Pulp Says Sales Fell in First Two Months

Portland, Ore.—Puget Sound Pulp and Timber company, Bellingham, Wash., sales of pulp for the first two months of 1958 were down approximately 15 per cent from the year-ago months, but "no significant change in earnings" is expected, says a report to Puget stockholders in connection with the proposed merger of Pacific Coast Paper Mills of Washington, Inc., into Puget.

Puget's operating savings in the first two months this year plus increases in by-products orders have offset a drop in pulp sales. Pulp sales dropped as a result of a reduction of contract tonnage which resulted from over-capacity in the pulp industry as a whole. In last year's first quarter, Puget net sales and other income totaled $6,340,731 with net income of $727,697 or 31 cents a share based on 2,334,519 shares outstanding.

Puget stockholders will vote on April 15 and Pacific shareholders on April 10 on a proposed exchange of four shares of Puget stock for each five shares of Pacific. A two-thirds vote for approval is required.

Committee Reaffirms New Street Work Rules

Listens to, Agrees With Ald. Pointer's Views On Ordering Asphalt for Residential Areas

A major revision of city street construction policy was thrashed out Monday afternoon, "directed to as high a type construction as is economically feasible." By this, the committee means it will put concrete, or concrete with asphalt, on primary streets whenever possible.

Result of the discussion was reaffirmation by the committee of a policy statement it submitted at the last council meeting, but which was referred back to the committee to permit Pointer to explain his ideas.

The policy is 2-fold:
1. On present primary streets, any major resurfacing or base reconstruction will be directed to as high a type construction as is economically feasible. By this, the committee means it will put concrete, or concrete with asphalt, on primary streets whenever possible.

2. On residential streets, a 11-inch asphalt mat will be ordered as part of the curb and gutter package, unless the alderman of the ward in which work is scheduled offers reasonable objections.

Different Assumption
Pointer had no objection about the primary street part of the policy. It is the same policy the city has had for the last two years. He confined his talk to the residential street policy.

Under present policy, the committee makes its decisions on residential street construction by accepting the alderman's recommendation. When a resolution for grading, graveling, curb and gutter is submitted it is understood that turnover and double sealcoat will be applied as the surface one year after the gutter is finished.

Committeemen explained to Pointer that the new policy will be to assume that an asphalt mat will be applied in the second year unless the alderman specifies differently when he places his original resolution with the council.

Pointer wanted the policy to exclude exceptions to the residential street rule. He said the committee has always been fair and could make exceptions without a formal statement to that effect.

Committee Agrees
Committeemen said they agree with Pointer, but don't want to appear they are forcing anything on the people. They also said aldermen ought to have something to say. One said adoption of such iron-clad policies would negate the need for aldermen.

Pointer listed these factors as his reasons for pushing for asphalt on residential streets after curb and gutter:

1. The quality of the street surface would be much better than the usual turnover and double sealcoat.

2. Streets would look cleaner and be cleaner longer after sweeping by city crews.

3. The city would cut down its maintenance problem in the long run and thus create the effect of a tax cut. Here Pointer explained that turnover and double sealcoat streets have a life expectancy of about seven years and asphalt streets, about 15 years.

Cites Savings
There also would be a savings to property owners, Pointer said, in that the amount of gravel required to prepare streets for asphalt would be less.

(On streets where curb and gutter was constructed in 1956, but for which the alderman changed the type of surface to asphalt last year, much gravel had to be scooped from the streets to make way for the asphalt mat. It was stored in piles and reused, but was part of the assessment charge to the property owners in the year the use of city equipment. A city grading, graveling, curb and gutter work was done.)

Savings also should result, Pointer said, from the budget committee knowing how much major street work is expected when they sit down to draft the budget in November.

Under present policy, aldermen who face elections in the spring usually wait until after the election to order higher, more costly surfaces, because the work could become controversial, he said.

And, he said it's common

Mrs. W. S. Gillette, Center, Appleton, has been re-named chairman of the Fox Valley Council of Red Cross Volunteers. The organization is the governing body of Red Cross volunteers working at Winnebago State hospital. Shown with Mrs. Gillette, from left, are Mrs. B. P. Pawlowski, Menasha, Mrs. Robert Petersen, Appleton, Mrs. E. E. Hay, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Willard Bellack, Neenah. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Nicholas Nayfack, 49, Film Producer, Dies

Hollywood — — Nicholas Nayfack, Brooklyn-born film producer, is dead at 49.

Nayfack, a nephew of movie pioneers Nicholas and Joseph Schenck, died at his home after returning from a party Sunday night. Cause of death was not determined.

He formed his own production company a year ago after working 20 years at MGM.

practice for aldermen to hold back until bids for work are taken to see what the price will be. If the price is good, as it was last year, and this year, the aldermen then change the order for turnover and double sealcoat to asphalt mat. Then asphalt last year, much gravel had to be scooped from the streets to make way for the asphalt mat. It was stored in piles and reused, but was part of the assessment charge to the property owners in the year the use of city equipment. A city grading, graveling, curb and gutter work was done.)

Savings also should result, Pointer said, from the budget committee knowing how much major street work is expected when they sit down to draft the budget in November.

Under present policy, aldermen who face elections in the spring usually wait until after the election to order higher, more costly surfaces, because the work could become controversial, he said.

School Bus Skids, Hurts Blind Pupils

Wisconsin Man Injured in Jersey Crash

Morristown, N. J. — — A school bus struck a tree here Monday, injuring a Wisconsin man and six other blind students attending the Seeing Eye, Inc., school at Whippany.

Earl Erickson, 47, Beloit, Wis., was released after hospital treatment of a shoulder injury.

One other student also was released. Five others were reported in fair condition at hospitals where they were confined with severe fractures.

Bus Skids
The bus, carrying eight students and their guide dogs, skidded on Whippany road. Police and rescue workers took 20 minutes to free the occupants from the bus. A trainer, one student and the driver were unhurt.

The dogs also emerged from the wreckage unscathed. The school said the dogs remained under control while rescuers removed the injured.

Police quoted the bus driver, an instructor at the school, as saying he was driving up an incline and around a turn when the vehicle skidded on the rain-soaked road.

Security Not Meant to Conceal Mistakes, Army Division Head Asserts

Kansas City — — The army's chief of information says security regulations are supposed to keep information from the enemy, not to conceal military mistakes.

Maj. Gen. Harry P. Storke, here on an inspection trip, told newsmen last night:

"We have found the best policy today is to admit the mistakes made by the army and give the public a clear explanation of what happened. The news is bound to leak out anyhow. We'd rather get our version out first than have it come back in a garbled version."

Impromptu Rodeo Held In Business District

El Dorado, Kan. — — An impromptu rodeo developed in El Dorado's business district last night, with all available policemen and about 2,000 residents taking part.

A Santa Fe freight train and a truck hauling 22 yearling cattle collided at a downtown crossing. The impact spun the truck into a parked car and both vehicles crashed through the front of a store.

British Heiress, Son Of Painter Obtain U. S. Marriage License

New York — — The son of a British portrait painter and a British heiress obtained a marriage license here yesterday.

Dominic Elwes and Tessa Kennedy Elwes have leap-frogged from London to Scotland to Curacao to Cuba to evade an English court's ban against their marriage.

They were reported to have been married by a notary public in Havana Jan. 27. They wouldn't say why they took out the license here.

Elwes, 26, is the son of portrait painter Simon Elwes. Tessa, 19, is the daughter of Geoffrey Farrar Kennedy, a wealthy British engineer, and the godchild of the Duchess of Kent.

Her parents opposed the marriage and obtained a court order forbidding it.
